AS A TOKEN of our appreciation for all he has done for us, we, the Class of 1937, dedicate this volume to Dr. George G. Struble.

All of us have come into pleasant contact with this polished gentleman in the classroom where the mysteries of freshman English have been solved for us by our able professor. Others of us have been fortunate enough to come into more intimate relationship with Dr. Struble in one or more of the various extra-curricular activities where his guiding hand has assisted us to put forth our best efforts and to appreciate something of the higher cultures of life. As supervisor of the Green Blotter Club, as adviser for La Vie Collegienne and the college yearbook, and as a dramatic director, Dr. Struble has always put our interests first in his mind and has proved a pleasant fellowworkman.

We sincerely appreciate the fact that the persistent efforts of Dr. Struble have brought success to many of our extra-curricular activities, and we fully realize that his relationships with us have enabled us to spend our years at LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE more profitably and more enjoyably.

We salute him—our friend, our able professor, and our capable adviser—Dr. Struble. May this publication be a worthy tribute to him!

DEDICATION

DR. GEORGE G. STRUBLE

President's Message to the Quittapahilla

THE totalitarian state regiments not only the economic activities of its citizens but completely subordinates the school and the church to the will of the government. Russia, Germany, and Italy are modern examples of the loss of personal, intellectual, and religious freedom. What a price the individual must pay for supposed political and economic security! One may be inclined to protest the idea that the supreme domination of the government over the total life of the citizens of this republic can happen here; but present-day trends in American education lead discriminating observers to predict that the battle for intellectual and religious liberty may have to be fought all over again, even on our own soil.

This issue should not be confused by partisan shibboleths and sibboleths; in fact it would be difficult, historically, to identify the cause of freedom with any specific form of government. Surely communistic Russia and socialistic Germany cannot boast of an excess of opportunities for self-realization and self-expression. So often, following the will-o'-the-wisp of a spurious liberty, men have but exchanged one intolerable taskmaster for another. Has not history taught us that a liberal education and an adequately-motivated social service alone can serve the fundamental interests of democracy? The rule of the majority is successful only when the majority are intelligent and good.

The Liberal Arts College is the true and indispensable servant of society. The principles on which it is founded are essential to the preservation and progress of American democracy. Its offerings conduce to the general culture and social-mindedness of its students; and, while freeing them from the fear of the bread line, their preparation enables them to give to the masses more than bread. Such an education will permit its possessors to offer the people those imperishable goods of the spirit without which man cannot truly live. Their training has involved their characters quite as much as their intellects. Receiving their education in an institution that is not subsidized by the state, and therefore free to criticize the structure and functions of the government, and of society generally, the living-products of the Liberal Arts College go out into the stream of social life with nothing human foreign to them. Possessing an adequate philosophy of life, the Christian motive of service, a cosmopolitan point of view, and an appreciation of the true, the good, and the beautiful, such students are permitted to employ their intellectual equipment not merely for gainful employment but for those psychic and spiritual rewards that come to those who do the world's work under the spell of the "magnificent obsession."

A certain type of mechanized and state-controlled education produces stenciled personalities and monotonous uniformity; but the Liberal Arts College will continue to encourage individual freedom of thought and action within the encompassing circle of social responsibility, believing that democracy is being served not by cutting off the heads of the leaders that rise above contemporary achievement levels, but by inspiring those leaders to dedicate their God-given talents to lift the masses to higher levels of efficiency and happiness in the production and consumption of material goods and in the creation and enjoyment of those spiritual values that lift man from his animality and make him truly human. Then, and then alone, will the collective life of man approximate the pattern of the Kingdom of God.

President.

FOREWORD

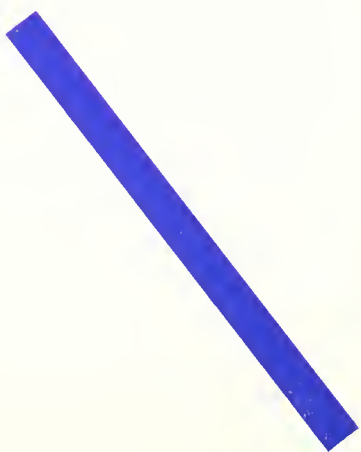

IN THE preparation of this volume, the 1937 Quittapahilla, the Junior Class of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE has put forth its best efforts in attempting to produce a worthy record of the year's activities. Many times we have been discouraged; we have had to give up many dreamy ideas concerning the perfect yearbook and come back to solid earth to base our plans upon a firmer financial foundation. We have done our best to overcome all those obstacles which lie on the path to success in as efficient a manner as possible.

The 1937 Quittapahilla has been intended to preserve in pictures and words some of the atmosphere surrounding our life at LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE. We have tried to catch the gaiety as well as the seriousness of campus life, to convert it into a permanent record of our college days. If this volume will in the future recall to your minds pleasant memories, will remind you of old acquaintances, of tasks well done, and of days well spent, then it has served its purpose. Let time temper the judgments—be they praises or condemnations—of this project of the Junior Class, the 1937 Quittapahilla.

Claire Elizabeth Adams

Richard A. Baus

CLAIRE ELIZABETH ADAMS; English: Delphian;PINE GROVE

College: German Club, 3; Life Work Recruits, 3; May Day Program, 2.

Class: "Admirable Crichton", 3.

Society: Warden, 1; Corresponding Secretary, 2; Chaplain, 2; Critic, 3; Recording Secretary, 3; "Hay Fever"; "As Husbands Go".

If one is looking for a really sincere, dependable, and intelligent person, none better than Claire can be found. Her excellence in class room recitations, the ease with which she has made and continues to hold many friends, and the sincerity with which she pursues church activities prove this. She has participated in several plays and also has proved her ability as a forceful speaker. Her congenial personality, her loyalty to a cause, and her unique ability mark her as a person well worth knowing. She divides her time among her English and German courses, her library work and her friends—each with equal zest. Her versatility adapts her to many situations, and this fact, added to the fact that she possesses superior ability, should assure this young lady success, whether it be in school teaching or home-making.

EDWARD R. BACHMAN; Business Administration: Kalo;LEBANON

College: Commerce Club, 1, 2, 3; Men's Senate, 3.

Class: Quittapahilla Staff, 3; Basketball, 1, 2, 3.

In Ed we find that unusual and pleasant phenomenon, a quiet day student. One who doesn't bother to raise his voice in the incessant altercations and bickerings that seem to flood their stronghold from eight to five every day except Saturday and Sunday.

He is a member of the business administration department and conscientiously applies himself to its subtleties of economics and law with a concentration which shows he is not merely taking a course but studying toward an end. In him are combined a steadiness and unassuming confidence that foretell a successful life. One of the fellows who takes this business of getting educated seriously, yet with enough humor to prevent the process from becoming too mechanical. A good friend, a good fellow, and we'll lay a bet—a successful fellow.

RICHARD A. BAUS; Chemistry;LEBANON

College: Assistant in Physics, 3; La Vie Collegienne, 2, 3; Wig and Buckle Club, 3.

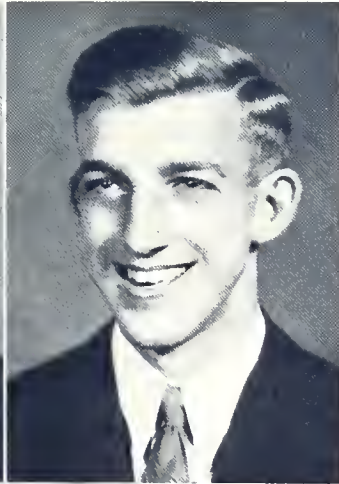

Class: Quittapahilla Staff, Associate Editor.

Here's a chap who really works! His major is chemistry, in which he is tops, but he also dabbles in physics and likes it even to the point of exposing himself to more than the required eight hours. Does his setting-up exercises on the higher maths and consistently places his name on our honor rolls. Still he finds time to manage lots of college affairs, including Wig and Buckle Club plays and La Vie Collegienne, and he knows his stuff, too.

"Tweed" isn't exactly loquacious, but he can talk about practically everything, and he has a dry pithy way of saying satirical remarks that is a scream. We all like him and admire him, and we can't help wondering what the incentive is that keeps him going and working so hard. Good luck, Dicky the Baus!

Harold E. Beamesderfer

Paul C. Billett

Elizabeth Bingham

HAROLD E. BEAMESDERFER; Bible-Greek; Kalo; READING

College: Green Blotter, 3; Life Work Recruits, 1, 2, 3, President, 3; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3, Treasurer, 3; Band, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Football, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2.

Society: Chaplain, 3.

Brother Beamesderfer is the sole survivor of that valiant enterprise, "Beamies the Booters," whose business flourished, more or less, in room 43, if customers didn't mind a motorcycle or two hanging in their faces. Harold was quite the typical freshman back in '33 but soon became worldly-wise when some benevolent upper classmen took him in hand. Soon he was blamed, maybe justly and maybe unjustly, for any and all agitation that arose in the dorm, and he does admit having a small part in a few affairs.

In a few years there will be much expounding of the Scriptures by Beamie, who is following his father in this calling. By his active participation in all the religious organizations on the campus he is gaining much experience, and may God speed him in the work. "Yes well."

PAUL C. BILLETT; Chemistry; Kalo; HARRISBURG

College: L. Club, 3, Secretary-Treasurer, 3; Basketball, 1, 2, 3; Baseball, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Vice-President, 3; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1.

Here, folks, is the chief contribution of the Class of '37 to Lebanon Valley College's athletics. Toeing the slab for the nine last spring, Paul hurled the Valley diamond artists to the championship of the league with a brilliant performance of curve ball and speed pitching.

Billett also held down a forward position on the court team, and gave an exhibition which won for him individual scoring honors in the Central Pennsylvania Collegiate League.

Quite versatile in athletics and always ready for fun, Paul nevertheless succeeds in earning better than average grades. He was a charter member of the "Wallflower Club" in his freshman year, but now he is no longer the "Blushing Billett" of those days.

His athletic prowess, pleasing personality, and easygoing competence should gain for him a high place in life. More power to you, Paul.

ELIZABETH BINGAMAN; Public School Music; Delphian; HUMMELSTOWN

College: Girls' Band, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2.

Society: Warden, 1, 2.

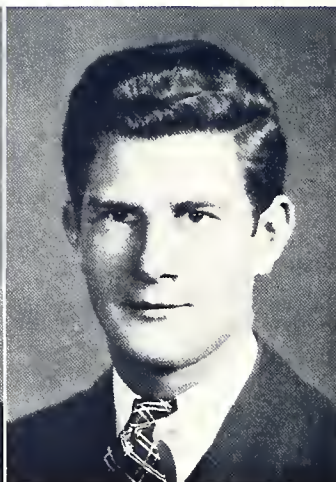

In those wistful brown eyes we behold a wealth of character. An excellent friend, an excellent student, and a true musician, Elizabeth has selected the piano as an outlet for her particular talents. Her accomplishments in her recitals are evidence of her ability as a performer and as an interpreter of the works of the great masters. She shows partiality to Mozart as her ideal composer.

Not only does she tutor students in the conservatory, but she also teaches piano theory in the Dunmire School of Music in Harrisburg. Elizabeth dropped from the ranks of the dormitory students to those of the day students at the end of her freshman year.

We sincerely wish this conscientious student the success she deserves.

Edna Anabelle Binkley

Gerald E. Bittinger

William Edward Black

EDNA ANABELLE BINKLEY; Public School Music; Clio; ANNVILLE

College: Operetta "Trial by Jury," 1; Girls' Band, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2, 3; Girls' Basketball, 2, 3.

To many people Edna might seem much of a mystery, but her close friends realize that she is a wry humorist as well as a sincere friend. Her interests are divided between the music course and a certain young chap from Albright. We think she manages both well.

In the conservatory she is known for her capable piano performances, and she finds time to pursue diligently the task of being organist in one of the local churches. As an athlete she is recognized as a basketball player par excellence. Do not these many activities prove her unique ability? We are looking for outstanding success from this blond lassie, whether it be as a music supervisor, an English teacher, or a home-maker.

GERALD E. BITTINGER; History; Philo; HARRISBURG

College: Band, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2.

Class: Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

Freckles and sandy hair characterize this cheerful fellow who as a lad was probably the embodiment of that type of American boy Whittier had in mind when he wrote his "Barefoot Boy." Although not especially tall, "Jerry" is so wiry and displays such speed and endurance on the dance-floor that he is justly called "The Iron Man."

For sheer versatility he is unsurpassed, for included among his interests are trumpet playing, skating, swimming, and tennis. Aside from music, history is his favorite field of endeavor, and he is ever ready to engage in the great indoor sport of the day students' room, namely, "extemporaneous debating."

Bittinger has been studying education, and judging from the efficiency and ease with which he can outline a chapter and take charge of a class, we are sure he has the makings of a capable teacher.

WILLIAM EDWARD BLACK; Music; Kalo; LEBANON

College: Band, 1, 2, 3; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2; College Orchestra, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Football, 1, 2.

Here's our tall, handsome, languid trumpet player. A typical "smoothie," Black has always been a sigh producer to the L. V. coeds, but 'tis all imaginary she doth find" since "Bill" is quite interested in a Lebanon miss.

Black's musical ability and ready wit seem to be his most outstanding qualities, but like Mark Twain, who rated himself as the world's greatest restler (Mark didn't know Black), Bill is an accomplished recuperator. He has even slept in brass class, during a semester examination, and in other such annoying situations.

Like many another of our musicians, Black is majoring in public school music, a course of study which would seem to point in the general direction of a pedagogical career. However, we can hardly visualize him as anything less than the leader of some really great orchestra of the future.

John Brosious

Ruth L. Buck

Thelma B. Denlinger

JOHN BROSIOUS; Biology; Kalo; HARRISBURG

College: Chemistry Club, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2.

Class: Treasurer, 3; Basketball, 1, 2, 3; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1.

Society: Secretary, 2.

"Nick" Brosious is a scientist—anyone who takes four science courses a year and thinks nothing of it must be a scientist. He spends most of his time in the science laboratories, diligently applying himself to work in his chosen field.

But as always, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and so John takes his part in play as well as work; sometimes he even plays in his work. You always see him on the floor in the inter-class basketball games and he was always on deck for any of the class scraps.

Every week-end sees John in Harrisburg where he spends all (?) his time in working for a newspaper company. He always returns on Sunday afternoon and immediately retires to bed, arising about eighteen hours later for a week of work and little sleep.

RUTH L. BUCK; French; Clio; HARRISBURG

College: Eclectic Club, 2, 3; W. S. G. A., 1; Education Assistant, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1; Wig and Buckle Club, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Ring Committee, Soph, Hop Committee, Junior Prom. Committee; Quittapahilla Staff, 3.

Society: Pianist, 2; Recording Secretary, 3.

At L. V. C. Ruth has gained recognition as an accomplished pianist and a commendable student, but her talents are not alone responsible for her prominence in college affairs. The winning personality of this North Hall lass has made her one of the outstanding campus queens. This year she was selected by student vote as the possessor of the most pleasing personality among the women students.

As a piano soloist, as an accompanist, and as an education assistant she is equally competent. She has taken a wholesome interest in class, Clionian, and college affairs and consistently maintains a high scholastic standing. However, even though her activities are many and varied, she is never too busy to give assistance when called upon. Her kind and cheerful smile has helped many a friend discover the silver lining in a dark cloud. Is it any wonder Hershey prefers sweets?

THELMA B. DENLINGER; English; Clio; HERSHEY

College: May Day Program, 1.

We are proud to own Thelma as one of our number. This fine-featured little lady makes her home in Hershey and in her spare moments in the evenings she sells tickets to theater-goers at the Community Building.

Since her first year, Thelma has been helping herself to a college education, and we congratulate her on her achievements as a good student.

Then too, a certain member of the Hershey royalty (King, mind you) is interested in Thelma. This interest has been such that it has enabled us to become better acquainted with her through social affairs as well as through the usual classroom contacts.

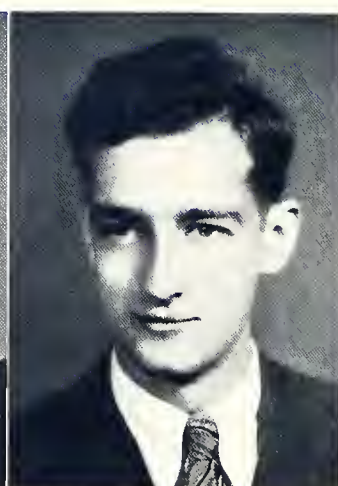

Her industry, ability, and ambition are only half of her attributes, the other half being represented by Thelma's personality. This personality, her perfect poise, and her pluck are certain to carry her forward.

HOMER ELWOOD DONMOYER; Economics: Kalo: LEBANON

College: Commerce Club, 1, 2, 3; Tennis, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Basketball, 1, 2, 3.

Life is a thing to be taken easily. Homer, if he doesn't lead the reflective life, at least doesn't waste a lot of energy rushing into and thru and out of anything. Things come and things go, so why get all excited about it? He's quiet and easy-going, and of course with that combination of traits he's happy. And is he a whiz with a tennis racquet! Number one man, if you please, when only a freshman and he made a lot of older and more experienced opponents bend the vanquished knee. He has quite a knack of tossing a basketball thru the hoops to, but, oh well, it's pretty tiresome practicing all the time.

This year he figures quite prominently as one half of a couple we see frequently on our campus. Homer is another day-by-day Lebanon student who has made his impression on our alma mater.

MAXINE LARUE EARLEY; English: Clio: EMEIGH

Society: Corresponding Secretary, 2, Vice-President, 3; Judiciary Committee, 2, 3; Editor Olive Branch, 1; Treasurer, 2.

In this petite miss we find an endless amount of energy. Her flashing eyes, dark curly hair, and charming manner have not gone by unnoticed. She is witty and a good student. Displaying her talent in dramatics by being a member of the junior play cast and an officer of the Wig and Buckle Club, in literary writings as a member of the Green Blotter Club, and as an executive by holding offices in many campus organizations, she has won an outstanding place on our campus. The diligence with which she pursues her studies and the real zest with which she undertakes any task prove "Max" to be a very serious person at heart. Such an interesting personality is sure to progress in life.

WILLIAM HARRY EARNEST; Business Administration; Philo: LEBANON

Bill's from Lebanon, he's always on the honor rolls, he edited this imposing volume, he sports-writes for the college paper, and he's a thespian—the man with the beautiful voice.

He's a confident lad who is sure of what he does. This easy competence and natural ability, combined with a liberal supply of cleverness, make an indomitable combination. He's usually happy and always cheerful, and his hearty laugh eases the sting of his caustic wit.

Likes to sit up nites listening to the jazz come out, is crazy about anything green, enjoys a good hand of bridge, likes to spectate at a fast athletic contest, plays a good-natured game of tennis, and prefers to dance the fast ones. Here is one chap we can pick as a future success and mean what we say. O. K. Samson!

Society: Vice President, 3.

Ken's distinguishing characteristic is his willingness to work hard for what he wants. As a member of the Rogue's Gallery, in Y. M. C. A. work, and in serving on various committees, he has not only had original suggestions to make, but he has also been ready to put forth the effort required to make these suggestions effective.

We recommend Ken as an outstanding friend and an entertaining companion. He enjoys conversation, likes to go places, do things, and enjoy life in a more or less cosmopolitan manner. His two main interests seem to be antiques and the latest plays, and he is well informed on both subjects. In fact, he would like to make an avocation of interior decorating. His artistic ability along with his sense of good taste should help him make his ideal a reality.

Society: Anniversary Committee, 3; Usher, 1.

The name of Engle shall always be a famous one on the L. V. campus—mainly because of our conservatory of music. But "Shorty" Engle will likewise be famous in the annals of the Class of '37.

Because "Shorty" is a five-day student, the North Hall girls get a rare treat when this young lady entertains. Tangos and "Roosian" operas are her specialties, but originality never reaches its limits where she is concerned. She's Harpo Marx to an "X" and Garbo to a "T," and she'll give you fair warning when she "Wants to be alone"—this happens each night at 9:00 shortly after she has finished studying.

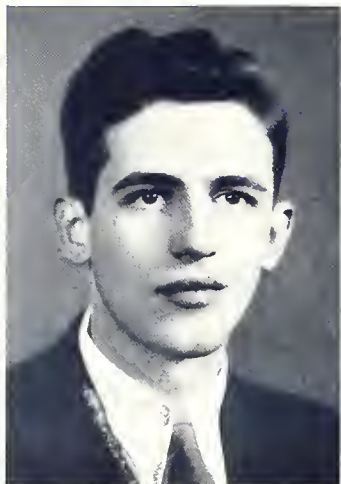

There are many among us who have benefited by the generosity and hospitality shown by "Shorty" and many of us turn to her because we value her well-considered opinion.

Class: Junior Prom Committee; "Admirable Crichton."
Society: Treasurer, 2; Vice-President, 3.

Unlike most Freshmen, Martha immediately became a part of things when she embarked on L. V. campus life. Calm, collected, and nonchalant, she has moved among us—a diligent worker and a witty speaker with an understanding air. Martha is frank and honest and her word is law to many a freshman.

If you want someone to teach a lesson, to solve a knotty problem, or to plan a snappy program, call Martha. Suggestions of all sorts for all occasions are at her fingertips, and at times she's our Aladdin.

On the "Y" Cabinet as well as in dramatics, Martha has done a considerable and commendable amount of work. Besides her aspiration to the field of education, we believe Martha has a secret interest in the medical profession. However, her one request is, "Don't call me Fannie."

KARL R. FLOCKEN; Biology Chemistry; LEBANON

Class: "Admirable Crichton"; Quittapahilla Staff, 3.

Well integrated culture is a most important factor in life. In Karl Flocken we find this attribute well defined. He is a doctor in the making and because of the combination of a fine intellect and a gentlemanly bearing he is bound to make a success of his profession. Flocken is not a Lockinvar, but neither is he put to great difficulty in finding fair maids to while away an evening.

Karl is another Lebanon day student, but his participation in school activities is not hindered by this fact. He was that simp Lord Brocklehurst who wowed the audience in "The Admirable Crichton". His burlesquing here was merely a public rendition of his own initiable style of humor.

Our toast to you, Karl, to your future success in medicine, to your ability to make and hold friendships, and to your steadfastness of purpose.

Ever since Ruth arrived at Lebanon Valley College as a Freshman, she has been displaying her unusual technique as a pianist—whether it be as an accompanist or as a soloist. Her aspiration is to become a music supervisor, but judging from the keen interest shown by a certain male suitor there is quite a possibility that she might change to a home economics student sometime in the near future. Her cheerful manner, together with her congenial personality, has won her many friends. She has been studying the 'cello since she came to school and has advanced so far as to become a member of the symphony orchestra. In Ruth we find those qualities of a true musician and those of a loyal friend, and we wish a world of success to one from whom we expect a great deal.

WILLIAM GEORGE GROSZ; Bible and Greek; Philo; PHILADELPHIA

College: Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, 1, 2; Life Work Recruits, 3.

"John" is another of our additions this year, but he comes to us in a slightly different way than most students do. Unlike most of those students who transfer from another school, he comes with a degree. It is that of T.H.B. from the Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, but he'll have to tell you himself just what the meaning of that degree after his name is.

He is a very busy man, preaching regularly as well as carrying his school work. He has a couple of charges that keep him constantly on the go and restrain him from taking a more active part in college affairs.

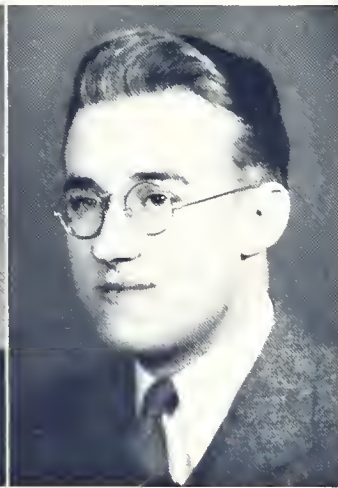

There is one thing that always impresses those whom he meets. That is his ready smile and the pleasant greeting that he gives everyone. With this feeling of brotherhood and friendship, he has surely picked out the right pathway to follow.

This tall brunette sophisticate attracts attention wherever she goes, her stunning clothes accentuating her natural loveliness. Just watch the boys flockin' around her! However, Lois' attributes are more than skin deep; to those who really know her she unfolds the depth of her personality.

Lois has recently changed from the arts course to the business administration department. The business world will certainly receive an asset when she appears on the scene.

That word "scene" reminds us that we must not forget Lois' dramatic ability. Her portrayal of "Lady Mary" in "The Admirable Crichton" is worthy of commendation. Then too, Lois is a piano player of no mean ability, as all of the North Hall girls can readily testify.

A versatile girl with such varied talents as Lois possesses is sure to be successful.

Jean proves the old saying that "Great things come in small packages." In this small stature we find an excellent mind enhanced by one of the most delightful of personalities. We advise you not to try to down such a combination. She has won her way into the hearts of many of our students. She has performed in several plays given by the Wig and Buckle, has attained a much coveted place on the honor roll, and has held class as well as society offices. Always a sympathetic listener, an entertaining conversationalist, and a loyal friend is Jean.

Her ready wit and intelligent and interesting conversation have made it possible for her to hold a large circle of friends. Jean's perpetual cheerfulness and her unusual ability to pursue a task to its successful completion promise her certain success in anything she may undertake in life.

College: Band, 2; Glee Club, 3; Symphony Orchestra, 1, 2, 3; College Orchestra, 1, 2; String Quartet, 1, 2, 3; Operetta, "Trial by Jury".

Behold! the Lebanon Valley virtuoso, Annville's contribution to our conservatory and to the music world at large. To discourse at any great length on Hatz's musical ability would be unnecessary, to say the least, for he has so often delighted us with his violin selections that anyone who does not think of this instrument when he thinks of Hatz, simply doesn't exercise his brain very strenuously.

Russell is serious and reserved, yet has a friendly smile for everyone. He shows good sense and little interest in the fair sex. His art is his life!

Public school music is "Fritz's" major, but although he certainly does remind one of the typical German music professor, we sincerely hope he will not "cast his pearls before swine" lest in so doing he might "hide his light under a bushel."

It was the Class of '37's gain when "Art" decided to return to Lebanon Valley after a year's absence. Everyone likes Art's rather quiet but decidedly outstanding personality, his courteous manner, and his general friendliness. He has made his mark both as a student and as an athlete. Tall, sure, and well-poised, he can meet any situation with capability.

Art is ambitious. He has decided to get as much from college work as possible, and so he is including education in his course in business. As teacher or business man, he will undoubtedly be able to make a worthy place for himself.

He likes sports, week-end drives to Harrisburg, the Senior Class in general, and a certain outstanding Senior in particular. A clean sportsman, an understanding friend, and a true gentleman—Art typifies the ideal in all the qualities one looks for in a college man.

College: Shenandoah College, 1, 2; Y. M. C. A., 3; Wig and Buckle Club, 3.

Class: "The Admirable Crichton," 3.

"Woody" is one of the newcomers to our class this year. Like a number of others, he has come to us from Shenandoah College, but even in this short time we have become conscious of his fine qualities. He has brought with him from the south much of that southern chivalry. His polished manners and gentlemanly conduct put most of us to shame. It is in those little niceties which most of us overlook that he is shown to be something more than the average student.

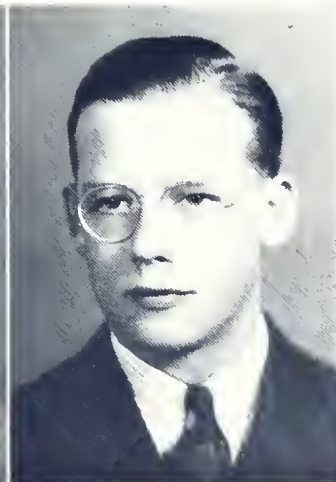

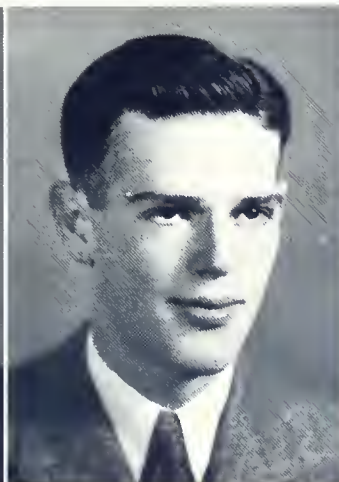

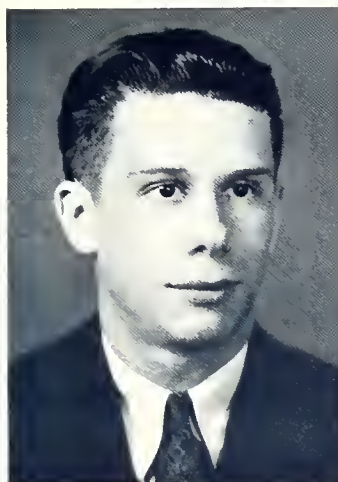

He first made his presence really felt among us in "The Admirable Crichton" with his excellent interpretation of Treherne. After seeing his portrayal of this character we look forward to seeing him again in a more prominent role. He has within him a real love of the stage and acting that should be felt in the future.

CHARLES I. HOFFMAN; Chemistry-Biology; LEBANON

Class: "Admirable Crichton."

"Huff" is the gentleman with impeccable manners, engaging personality, and a much-broken collar bone. Another of the Lebanon day students, he has the knack of being really funny; with his clever wit and real or imagined worries he makes many a dull day brighter. He's an average boy with more than the usual capacity for liking everybody and making most people like him, and that's about all that really matters.

His idyllic life is disturbed only by hosts of little worries, but happily they usually dissolve and we all go merrily on our way. He much prefers an evening with his radio to studying, and week-ends he prefers Lititz to almost anything. He cherishes only a few dislikes—onions, icy pavements, and Math 36. An authority on automobiles, orchestras, and chickens. His future is all tied up with medicine, a cottage by a lake, and everything.

Here's Holly, the boy who believes in the adage "Like father like son," and so is preparing for a career in the ministry.

The freshman year of his college career was spent in the Dorm, but for the past two years he has been paddling his own canoe from Elizabethtown to Annville. Due to too ambitious activity in the round-up of the spring of 1934, Holly unfortunately became ill and as a result some of the local editors seized upon the opportunity to throw some acrimonious writings at the college initiations and customs.

There's much of the old Casanova in Harold and his best friends tell us he is almost engaged to the one and only. If preaching fails he can always use his auto salesmanship experience to support the family, or does he have his eye on the chair of Philosophy and Religion?

It was in the fall of '34, and the valiant Fresh quarterback yabbered signals in his fiery style. Signals: 29, 36, 54, 7, hip—and the sturdy back executed one of his fanciest kicks. Again he had stolen the show, but instead of punting the ball, he had booted a teammate in the pants.

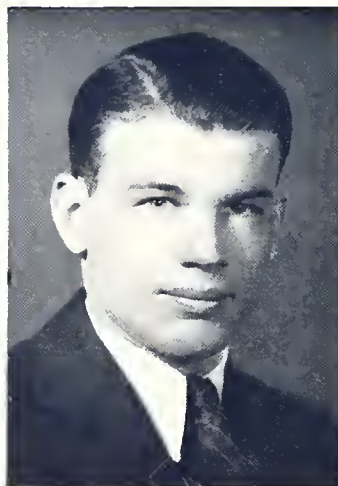

A merry ride George took for this achievement, but with a merry chuckle he passed it off. His happy-go-lucky, cheerful nature is one to be envied. However, behind this friendly glow, there is a new seriousness. His room, formerly the stronghold of bull sessions, is now the home of a man with a purpose. The George we now have is less irresponsible, but as likeable as ever. Perhaps it is the influence of that one from his home town that furnishes the zeal and inspiration. Who knows?

"Bob" is one of Professor Stokes' boys. He has demonstrated his business ability not only in the usual business administration course, but also in debating, La Vie Collegienne, and society activities.

But there is something he enjoys more than business. That is the noble sport of hunting! Even though he might tramp through the fields and woods all day with Professor Gingrich and get nothing but a small rabbit, he will be ready the next morning to go out once again. When Fall comes, he sleeps, eats, studies, and thinks in a daze, for his mind is far afield chasing squirrels and rabbits hither and yon.

Yet when Kell applies himself to a task, you can lay a safe bet that that task will be well-done, and he should find a suitable niche in the business world.

The Fall of '33 brought to L. V. C. the most noble of the clan of Kinney, the Farmingdale Kinneys to be explicit. Characteristically, as New Yorkers are wont to be, Charlie was a cocky freshman, which is attributed to the fact that the lad had received too much fame in his home town. So was he to blame if they called him the "Farmingdale Flash"?

He soon proved he really had the goods by making the honor roll his first year here. In addition to all his scholastic work he participated in the numerous activities above listed. Driven almost to desperation by trying to attend play practices, basketball practice, I. R. C. work, debating, tutoring and studies, Charlie relaxes by promenading with Miss Schuykill Haven, and this is hard to believe of an old "Wallflower Clubber."

This blue-eyed lass has a pair of nicknames, "Curly Tops" and "Punchy." A glance at her picture will convince you of the appropriateness of her first nickname, while a glance at her playing the wing position in hockey will show you just how "Punchy" she is.

Esther spends much of her time in the Conservatory where she plays, sings, and experiments with a great variety of instruments. Once in a while we see her in the Administration Building taking a Shakespearian course.

Esther never has to walk from the dining hall to West Hall alone. She is always accompanied by some man or other, but we just can't keep track of all her admirers.

May the best of luck be yours, Esther.

NORMAN LAZIN; Biology; Kalo; LEBANON

College: German Club, 2; Basketball, 2; Tennis, 2.

Class: Basketball, 1; Tug-of-war, 2.

Norman is a tall fellow whose destiny rests securely on a firm foundation. His perseverance and capacity for hard mental work are as boundless as the space occupied by his pedal extremities, which, be it said in all fairness to him, are only in proportion to his height.

Lazin is a biologist who is, however, not necessarily aiming at a medical career. Like Lincoln, he does not know what he is going to do but is getting ready to do it in the best possible way by doing his best from day to day. We feel safe in predicting that Lazin will leave large footprints in the sands of time.

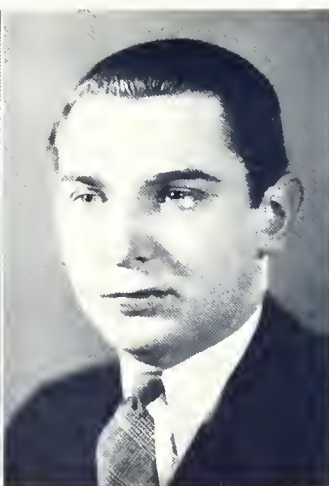

We have seen a great deal more of Norman in a social way during this year than ever before and we have come to appreciate those admirable qualities in him which foretell success in his post-graduate ventures.

Society: Corresponding Secretary, 3; "As Husbands Go," 2; "You and I," 3; Minstrels, 3.

Lebanon Valley audiences have seen this handsome chap in two Kalo-Delphian productions, and in both of them he has played prominent parts. In addition to the natural advantages of a pleasing appearance, Leech has demonstrated real talents as a dramatist. In "As Husbands Go" he put some life into a rather dull play with a spirited portrayal of the role of a drunk.

"Peck" had a royal welcome to Lebanon Valley. In accord with the usual custom, the upper classmen had a little party for the new arrivals, and Leech had to make an early-morning trip to Kreider's cemetery to get some historic evidence that was desired. It is not exactly comfortable searching unknown land on a dark night. Just ask him!

Class: "Admirable Crichton."

This tall co-ed with the dark sparkling eyes lives in the far western corner of Annville. However, her home is not too far out of the way to daunt certain inhabitants of the men's dormitory.

When we think of Sara we think first of her musical ability. She is an excellent pianist and organist. Sara has been chosen to accompany the band and glee club on their trips, a distinction which speaks for itself. Then too, she finds time to play the organ in a local church every Sunday.

Music is not Sara's only interest, as she is a good basketball forward, and furthermore, we hear that Sara can set hair proficiently; perhaps that accounts for her almost perfect coiffure.

A girl possessing such talents as Sara has shown certainly has a bright outlook, and we predict great success in the future.

We know that Ted is faithful and conscientious. His "Y" work demonstrates that he is a hard worker. He did nobly as class treasurer, attempting, perhaps futilely, to prove that dues must be paid, but it is in the art of studying that he really shines. When others waste those few odd moments, Ted pursues his studies.

There is one side of his life that few know. This is typified by his love of travel and the quest of the unknown. At present he is dreaming of seeing New England and Quebec in the same way that he saw the Chicago Fair a few years ago.

BURRITT K. L. LUPTON; Chemistry; Kalo; WYCKOFF, N. J.

College: Chemistry Club, 1, 2, 3, Secretary, 3; Mathematics Club, 3.

Science, especially chemistry, is this man's joy. Some of us take sciences because we have to, others because we like them, but Burritt takes them because they are really life to him. A glance at his marks for this last semester will clearly indicate his proficiency in his chosen field. He strode through his scientific subjects with a straight A average. In other years non-scientific classes were a necessary evil in the path to science.

"Burt" has a very hospitable nature. Many a pal has enjoyed a trip to his home to partake of his friendliness and his hospitality. He takes care of his guests in the real New Jersey style. At his home he can exhibit two very fine collections of stamps and minerals that clearly demonstrate the fact that Burritt applies himself diligently to any task in which he is sincerely interested.

Class: Vice-President, 1; Quittapahilla Staff, 3.

Society: Usher, 1.

Ambitious student, enthusiastic sportswoman, a real friend . . . this is too short a summary to include all of Eleanor's capabilities, but it describes a girl who is truly genuine in all that she does. To watch her on the hockey field or basketball floor, in the classroom, or in a social group is to recognize a real and vital personality. Eleanor does all things well. She possesses just enough self-confidence to make her a most assuring person, but her self-confidence is a natural talent and not at all an adopted air.

Eleanor's faithfulness to a certain Senior in the Men's Dorm is just another quality of hers to be commended. Here's wishing the best of all that she may want of life to a girl who knows how to get it!

FRANCIS W. MACMULLEN; Chemistry; Kalo; HARRISBURG

College: Chemistry Club, 1, 2, 3, Vice-President, 3.

"Mac" is the final word on hygiene conditions in Lebanon Valley College. He can orate for hours without even slight provocation concerning the lack of medical examinations. One of his most important suggestions includes the installation of self-sterilizing door knobs in the dormitory.

He is also a connoisseur of battleship statistics. His mind is chock full of figures, such as how many and which are the ten smallest anchors in the United States Navy. Although he does have an intense interest in this field, and, although he considers one date a year one too many, we still don't believe he goes to Harrisburg every week to talk to his uncle about the Navy.

While at L. V. C. MacMullen has earned an admirable and praiseworthy scholastic record. He has already begun original research in food chemistry, and will certainly advance far in the field of science.

"Sally" possesses that rare quality of good nature which distinguishes her personality in any group. No matter how busy she may be—and her time is divided among various activities—she always has time to lend a helping hand or a sympathetic ear in a friendly and understanding manner. This young lady has acquired a name for herself as one of the most capable of our present body of student assistants. Her sense of responsibility, coupled with a considerable degree of efficiency, insures a job well done, whether it be in class work or some extra-curricular activity.

We are rather dubious concerning those many years in the future which Sally insists will be occupied in teaching Latin verbs to dilatory high school pupils. There are too many tall, dark men standing in the way. We do know, however, that Sally's future will be one that is really worthwhile.

HARRY EDGAR MESSERSCHMIDT; German; Kalo: MYERSTOWN

Class: President, 3; Quittapahilla Staff, 3; Football, 2; Tug-of-war, 2; Flag Scrap, 2.
Society: "You and I."

Primarily Edgar is an Anglicised German; his sympathies are Teutonic, and so are his accents. The German courses we waded through he took for pleasure. Why, he even claims to think German and then translate it into verbal English! And Hitler is all right!

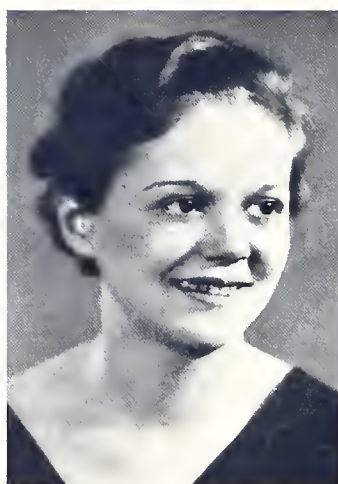

His home at present is in Myerstown, but to further confuse his ideas he has contributing impressions from previous homes in Palmyra, Mohnton, Fleetwood, Tower City, Catasauqua, and Allentown.

Fundamentally he should be classed, by self-confession, as a non-conformist abstract thinker. His personality is tempered by an inflexible honesty and frankness. He would like to attain an idealistic state of mind founded on realism, and to that end he aims some day to be the hard-working virile master of a hundred-acre farm, beautiful wife, and husky kids. Good luck, Edgar!

"James Henry Miller"—"present"—thus we hear the full nomenclature of Jim every time the roll is called in room 5. This commuter from Harrisburg seems something other than a pre-med student when we see him tickling the ivories in modernistic style. It really is a treat to hear the team of Miller and Yokum produce harmonies in their super-ultra-modern manner. But the desire to affix an M. D. to his name is Jim's foremost desire, so we generally find him in one of the laboratories preparing the old gray matter for the long road that leads to Doctor Miller.

One of Miller's prime attributes is his loyalty to a cause. For two years he was a pure bachelor, and now the constancy of his attentions is really remarkable. May success be yours, you embryo M. D.!

Gayle has a pair of big brown eyes that make everyone desire to look at her at least a second time. They can be both laughing eyes and serious eyes, reflecting the particular mood of their charming possessor.

Gayle is taking the music course and is specializing in voice. We certainly enjoy her beautiful soprano solos in chapel, recital, and glee club programs. It is rumored that many of her girl friends want her to sing "I Love You Truly" at their weddings. Besides her vocal talents, Gayle shows a distinct ability at playing the violin.

Gayle is extremely popular. During her freshman year she was chosen to represent L. V. C. at the Intercollegiate Ball in Harrisburg. Her male admirers are by no means confined to the campus.

Gayle's charming personality, combined with her exceptional talents, is bound to win her friends wherever she may be.

Belle came to us this year as a transfer student from the University of Pittsburgh. She is the type of girl who unconsciously leaves a definite impression with anyone whom she meets, and in a short time she has made mere acquaintances friendships that are proving to be lasting. An all-round good sport in every sense of the word and the jolliest of juniors is "Seniorita Mulhollen." No one knows exactly how she acquired this title, but it seems that it took a fall on the ice last winter to introduce this most appropriate caption.

In her sincere enjoyment of life as it comes day by day, Belle is living fully. She likes both work and play, and enters into everything with a whole-hearted enthusiasm that has a contagious effect on those working or playing with her.

Class: Vice-President, 1, 2; "The Admirable Crichton"; Quittapahilla Staff, Associate Editor.

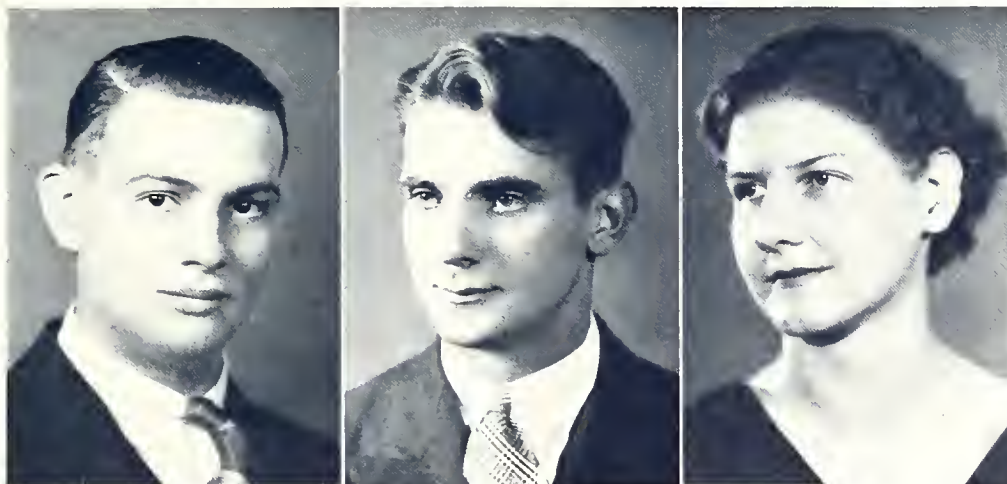

Society: Recording Secretary, 2, Treasurer, 3.

We nominate Grace Naugle for the Lebanon Valley Hall of Fame. A good student, a sincere friend, and a refined young lady, she typifies the American college co-ed.

Her numerous positions on the campus have given us sufficient grounds for declaring Grace's dependability and success. Along with all the extra-curricular activities she finds time to keep in touch with her assignments and maintains a record which is the dream of many a student.

Tickling the ivories is another of Grace's attributes—a touch of Ellington here and Lopez there and presto you have a unique interpretation of the latest song hit.

Grace's great success, not only as one of the few feminine followers of the business administration teachings of Professors Gingrich and Stokes, but also as an able participant in extra-curricular activities, has stamped her as one of the most competent members of the Class of '37.

ELLWOOD E. NEEDY; Philosophy: Kalo;BOONSBORO, MD.

College: Life Work Recruits, 1, 2, 3; President, 2; Deputation Chairman, 3; Y. M. C. A., 1, 2, 3; La Vie Collegienne, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2, 3; Wig and Buckle Club, 1, 2, 3; Junior Manager Football.

Class: "The Admirable Crichton"; Quittapahilla Staff, 3; Basketball, 1, 2; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1.

Society: Chaplain, 2; Minstrels, 3.

History has its Alexander the Great, the theatre has Elmer the Great, and L. V. C. has Ellwood the Great. To see him is to understand him—partially, but not wholly; he will ever remain somewhat of an enigma to all of us. Many a quivering Freshman fearfully shook at his growl, until he learned to know that his bark was worse than his bite. As "Hercules" in one of the plays last year, he showed this side of his character.

Each year this Boonsboro flash gives us something different to consider. As a Freshman he enjoyed bull sessions and agitating; then, as a Sophomore, he was the great socializer; and now he is the all-around man, with work as one of the football managers, and as La Vie circulation manager, and his ministerial duties combining to make him a very busy student.

MARLIN RAY O'NEAL; Public School Music: Kalo;HARRISBURG

College: Shenandoah, 1, 2; Band, 3; Glee Club, 3; College Orchestra, 3.

Even though "Buck" just entered our Conservatory this year—he spent his first two years at Shenandoah College—he has lost no time in getting into the swing of Lebanon Valley activities. Not only does he play the tuba in the college band, but he has also demonstrated that he is adept in manipulating the trombone and trumpet. "Buck" has also become a member of the Glee Club in his first year at L. V. C.

Being a good sport with the fellows and quite an Adonis with the ladies, he has gained a great deal of popularity with both sexes. There is a rumor to the effect that his feminine interests are not limited to this campus but extend to the national capital. We wish him success in whatever he may choose to undertake.

ANNA ORTH; History: Clio;LEBANON

College: Y. W. C. A., 1; May Day Program, 1, 2; Girls' Hockey, 2, 3; Girls' Basketball, 1, 2, 3.

The expression "Hi, Punk!" accompanied with a big broad smile is a characteristic greeting of Anna's. It is indicative of her unassuming manner, and her keen sense of subtle humor.

Anna is one of our outstanding day students. She is proficient in her studies and is an excellent athlete. Her tall stature assists in making her a formidable foe for the girl's basketball and hockey opponents. As a member of the basketball squad for three years, Anna has been an efficient performer at the center post, and as a member of the hockey squad for two years she has been a capable fullback.

Anna is taking an active part in the formation of our new Women's Athletic Association, and she is learning to be a very adept basketball referee. We know that Anna's vigorous undertakings accompanied with her unobtrusive manner will win for her a worthy place in life.

Ruth Phenicie

Harold Phillips

Joseph W. Prowell

RUTH PHENICIE; English; SHANKSVILLE

College: Shenandoah, 1, 2; Y. W. C. A., 3; May Day Program, 3.

This prim little miss is a transfer student from Shenandoah College. However, we believe that Ruth still prefers the institution of learning that was her first choice; perhaps her heart is still there.

Ruth is quite reticent. She prefers the companionship of a few intimate friends to that of the larger group, but those who best know her have discovered that she possesses a goodly portion of common sense, is a clever conversationalist, and has a subtle sense of humor.

Since she doesn't spend much of her time socializing, Ruth is able to accomplish many useful and artistic tasks. She knits, makes rugs, and paints; but only her inner circle of friends are favored with a view of her oil, crayon, and shadow work.

We wish this talented classmate every success in her chosen field—English.

HAROLD PHILLIPS; French; NEW YORK CITY, NEW YORK

College: Rogues' Gallery, 1, 2; Readers Club, 1, 2, 3; College Stage Manager, 1, 2, 3; Wig and Buckle Club, 1, 2, 3; President, 3; "The Late Cristopher Bean" Staging.

Class: "Admirable Crichton," Co-Director.

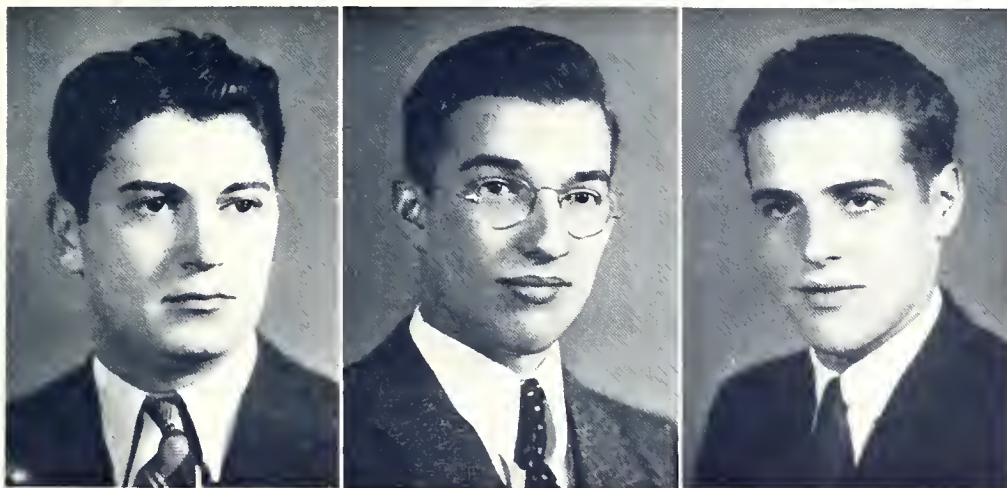

"Hal" is one of L. V.'s prize sons. Seldom do we find a person with his unusual abilities on so small a campus as ours. The word dramatics means Phillips and Phillips in dramatics is the tops. As a producer, a director, a technician, or make-up man he excels. Hal learned his electricity at N. Y. U. and his staging and make-up artistry with a prominent summer stock company in Maine. He has become such an able director in his years with us that he has been appointed co-director for one of the major productions of the year.

Not all of Phillips' time is spent on dramatics, however. He is an excellent student, and ranks well up toward the top of the class. And although he is but an occasional socializer, any evening spent with him, girls, is an evening well spent.

JOSEPH W. PROWELL; Biology-Chemistry; ETTERS

Here's a real sturdy son of the soil from down York County way. Industrious, serious-minded and perseverant, he is a perfect example of the best type of rural youth. Joe is a practical fellow possessed of a most valuable characteristic, namely, the ability to subordinate his immediate inclinations to the attainment of his ultimate goal, which is to become a doctor. This explains why this strong man with a good, healthy, pioneer attitude toward hard physical work and a true love of out-door life is willing to confine himself in a stuffy laboratory, diligently pursuing his scientific experiments.

Joe's practical turn of mind is further indicated by his ideas with reference to girls. "They're alright," says he, "but I don't have time for 'em and so I dare not like them too much." Still we feel certain that he'll fall hard sometime and make just as great a success as a husband as he will as a physician.

Howard F. Reber

F. Allen Rutherford, Jr.

Jack Edward Schmidt

HOWARD F. REBER; Education: Kalo: ELIZABETHVILLE

College: Chemistry Club, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1; Wig and Buckle Club, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Quittapahilla Staff, 3; Basketball, 1; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

Here is our great inventor. There is no limit to Reber's genius, for his fertile mind is ever at work developing new and fantastic schemes. One long-to-be-remembered trick is the way he "shocked" the President of the Men's Senate in our first year. Doorknobs may serve more than one purpose! He is also fond of concocting foul-smelling liquids and gases that permeate the surrounding rooms. He furnished plenty of excitement last year with his antics on his motorcycle.

More recently Howard became engrossed in photography and set his ingenious mind at work in this practical field. He and his partner opened a studio, and photography has become his obsession. Forgotten now are the hours of fun and frivolity in his whole-hearted pursuit of his business enterprise. No longer is he such a familiar figure in agitation; now he is a successful business man.

F. ALLEN RUTHERFORD, JR.; Pre-Medical: LEBANON

College: Chemistry Club, 2; May Day Program, 1; Wig and Buckle Club, 3; "The Late Cristopher Bean," 3.

Class: "Admirable Crichton," Quittapahilla Staff, 3.

"Doc" Rutherford is one of those sensible fellows who believes in adhering to his family traditions. He will therefore follow in the footsteps of his father by joining the ranks of the followers of Hippocrates.

It is difficult to say whether this cheerful chap is the bodyguard of J. Edward Schmidt or if he is himself the recipient of the latter's protective care, but it's a fact that this team has rendered valuable service on the Quittie staff and in assisting in the staging of dramatic productions.

"Doc" has maintained a good scholastic standing at L. V. C., but he is afflicted with two great weaknesses—a passion for bridge and a deep interest in a Penn Hall co-ed. Yet we feel more than safe in predicting a most useful medical career for this natural-born doctor.

JACK EDWARD SCHMIDT; Chemistry: LEBANON

College: Chemistry Club, 1, 2; Wig and Buckle Club, 3; "The Late Cristopher Bean," 3.

Class: Vice-President, 3; "Admirable Crichton," Stage Technician; Quittapahilla Staff, 3; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

Presenting our leonine harlequin, Ed Schmidt. Over six feet tall, big-boned, and loosely knit—he's going to be the powerful guardian of many lives some day when he gets to be a doctor.

Right now in this happy care-free college life, Ed is just that. Ready for anything from a bender to a tea, carrying both with the perfect charm of experience, he is the real hale fellow well met—bristling with good humor and always ready to help some one else along. In the current Junior play we had a sample of his ingenious scheming. With his colleague, Rutherford, he produced with hard work, sleepless nights, and no wealth of material a jungle scene that for perfection in detail and form and balance topped any setting that has ever graced our stage. He and his pal are stage managers—property men par excellence.

Donald Emerson Shay

Cordella Sheaffer

Reta J. Sholley

DONALD EMERSON SHAY; Biology; Kalo; LEBANON

Class: Basketball, 1, 2; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

The fact that Shay was making his own way out in the cruel world for some time before he came to college probably explains why he's so sincere in his pursuit of knowledge. Shay is so conscientious that although he is a card-player of the first order he refrains from participating in the daily day student jousts in order to best execute his duties in the labs. Aside from being a real serious-minded student Shay is also a successful business man (see Shay for further particulars concerning his jewelry agency).

This handsome, neatly-dressed fellow with his well-plastered blond hair is quite a ladies' man, and lately has been devoting considerable time and attention to a Lebanon miss.

Although Shay is a biology major he is not certain whether he will embark on a medical career or not, but whatever he does he will undertake it with a will. We can vouch for that.

CORDELLA SHEAFFER; Public School Music; Delphian; OBERLIN

College: Girls' Band, 1, 2, 3; Glee Club, 2; May Day Program, 1, 2; "Trial by Jury," 1.
Society: Warden, 1; Pianist, 2; Critic, 3.

Cordella is the happy-go-lucky girl who takes things as they come and makes the best of them. She is one of the South Hall "lassies" who keeps everybody in a jovial mood because she herself so thoroughly enjoys life.

Like most of the music students she spends most of her time in the conservatory where she does clever tricks on the piano and has learned to tackle the trombone with no trifling amount of assurance.

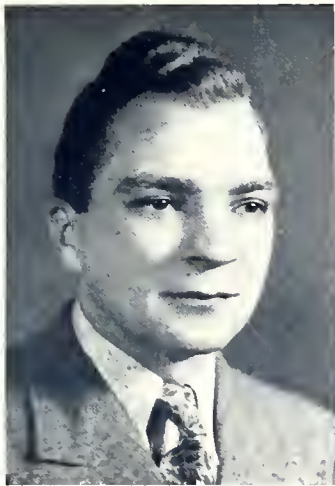

"Connie" is our idea of an all-around good sport. In the first place she's attractive enough to command one's attention—and once you've stopped you look and listen too. So the future probably holds great things for this dimpled little miss and she's sure to get sweet music when she raises her baton to say, "Eins, zwei, drei—go ahead!" Go ahead, Cordella!

RETA J. SHOLLEY; French; Clio; ANNVILLE

College: May Day Program, 1, 2; Wig and Buckle Club, 3.
Class: Secretary, 2.

Reta is a day student of whom we see very little on the campus except in class rooms. There she reveals herself as a student who usually has her work prepared. She has a simple, direct manner that is impressive because of its quiet dignity. Although Reta may be slightly reticent, she has a pair of expressive dark eyes which aptly reveal her thoughts. We regret to say that perhaps the most serious of her thoughts stray from our campus to a tall lad whom we know but vaguely.

An enthusiastic participant in class sports, Reta has been seen swinging a hockey stick with no little determination. She goes into a game with a zest that is surprising for a girl who is usually just a bit unobtrusive. Perhaps Reta is one of those who still believe that "actions speak louder than words."

George Light Smeltzer

Cyrus G. Smith

Marjorie Smith

GEORGE LIGHT SMELTZER; Business Administration: Kato: HARRISBURG

College: Commerce Club, 1, 2, 3; Band, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Quittapahilla Staff; Basketball, 2; Football, 2; Tug-of-war, 2.

Society: Minstrels, 3.

This blond, curly-haired lad with the twinkling blue eyes is "genial George"—one of Harrisburg's best contributions to the business administration department. George doesn't have any worries; he takes the world as it comes and enjoys it immensely. However, he is by no means the "happy-go-lucky, come what may" type. He has attained for himself recognition in the classroom as a good student with a considerable amount of common sense.

His hobbies are bridge, dancing, and playing ladies' man and chauffeur every day for four of our most loquacious co-eds. Any fellow who can take this latter situation as calmly as George does proves his utter refusal to let anything excite him.

George has ambitions of his own. He spends the hot summer days in the employ of the Hershey Ice Cream Plant in Harrisburg, but he already has his mind rather definitely set on carrying on the family name in the banking business.

CYRUS G. SMITH; Music, History: LEBANON

College: Band, 1, 2, 3; Glee Club, 2, 3; Orchestra, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Tug-of-war, 1; Flag Scrap, 1.

Cy plays an oboe, and that in itself we think is quite a distinction. Cy is a conserv student and another of the commuters from Lebanon. When not tooting his horn or pursuing the intricacies of his music he is a permanent resident of the day-student rendezvous.

At first impression he seems quiet, even taciturn, but he really isn't. In fact, he can be quite argumentative upon occasion and is very capable of upholding his own in any man's dispute, good naturedly of course, because there's a lot more generosity than animosity beneath that thatch of reddish hair. He tends to be conservative in appearance and manner, except for a cute little moustache he recently developed.

Cy's musical ability has earned him places in the band, glee club, and orchestra, and further study in the conservatory should make him a polished, well-poised, and successful musician.

MARJORIE SMITH; History: Clio: MYERSTOWN

College: May Day Program, 1; Girls' Basketball, 1, 2, 3; Girls' Hockey, 2, 3.

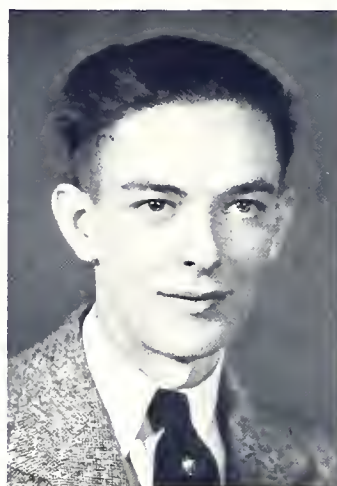

Class: "The Admirable Crichton."

Marjorie hails from Myerstown, commuting every day a la Messerschmidt.

We are always glad to have "Marj" around. With her happy-go-lucky, care-free air she has enabled many of us to forget our worries and cares and has made many a dull day more cheerful. In a certain psychological rating-scale experiment, "Marj" was adjudged 100% friendly. Is it any wonder that the males feel so much at ease in her presence?

"Marj" is one of our all-around athletes. She has played varsity basketball and hockey for three years and is also an excellent swimmer and tennis player.

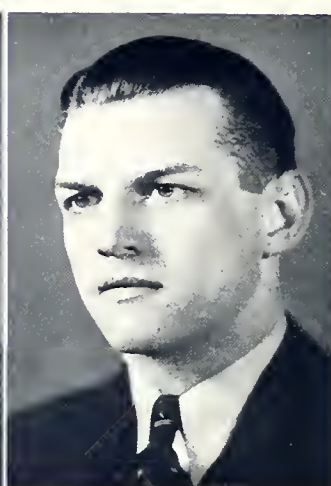

If you want to get "Marj" talking, just ask her about her summer work in Atlantic City. The enthusiasm she will display in answering your query is typical of her in all her interests. May good luck be yours in whatever you undertake, Marjorie!

Richard T. Smith

Clair A. Snell

John Lewis Speg

RICHARD T. SMITH; Pre-Medical; Kalo; HARRISBURG

College: College Band, 3; Glee Club, 1; Orchestra, 3; May Day Program, 2.

Class: President, 1; "The Admirable Crichton," Football, 2; Tug-of-war, 1; Flag Scrap, 2.

Richard is one of the Smith Brothers—the one without the whiskers or dink. His first love was music, so his freshman days found him as a member of the Conservatory of Music student body. However he soon made a change to the pre-medical course, although he still clings to music and operates on a bassoon for the benefit of the college band and orchestra.

Another of the host of commuters, he percolated back and forth from Harrisburg to Annville in an old kettle which finally chugged its last a year ago. He and his crew now do their travelling in a more respectable and dependable gas-buggy.

He has an innate ability to spread his contagious laughter, and the personality that is his will be one of his greatest aids in finding a place in the field of medicine.

CLAIR A. SNELL; Mathematics; Kalo; LEBANON

College: L Club, 3; Mathematics Assistant, 3; Band, 1, 2; May Day Program, 2, 3; Basketball, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Football, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

Tall, athletic and good looking. Varsity basketball player for two years and ready to go into the third to new and better opportunities to show his abilities. A math major; one of the best, too! He's a very good fellow and since his sophomore year has become quite a social light.

Clair is another of our all-around day students, but he doesn't spend much time with them. Most of his afternoon and spare time is devoted to work in one or another of the labs, and the remainder in walking hither and yon admiring the sundry beauties of nature.

We like him because he's cheerful, a clean sportsman, and an intelligent conversationalist. He tends to be emphatic in everything and this exuberant enthusiasm just carries everything before it—studies, problems, and life.

JOHN LEWIS SPEG; Chemistry; Kalo; GARFIELD, N. J.

College: Chemistry Club, 1, 2, 3; L Club, 3; May Day Program, 1; Basketball, 1, 2, 3.

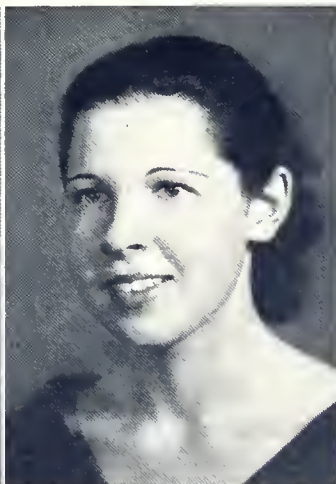

Class: President, 2; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

Every year L. V. C. receives its quota of Frosh from New Jersey, but what a man the mosquito state sent our class back in '33! Spug is the typical Jerseyite; he wasn't the cockiest Freshman on the campus but almost had that distinction. John was always one of the big guns in any class scrap and was quite prominent in helping the Class of '37 make history by winning the numeral fight two successive years.

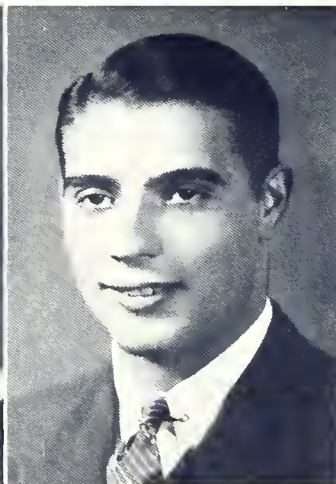

Spug holds down a guard position on the varsity five and is one half of a well-known campus couple. He always is able to chase away the blues, even if he does have to resort to reciting tender poetry. None of the cares of the world seem to be able to worry John. Too bad we aren't all like that!

Henry C. Steiner

D. Romaine Stiles

Chester A. Stineman, Jr.

HENRY C. STEINER; Public School Music; Philo: HARRISBURG
College: Symphony Orchestra, 2, 3; College Orchestra, 1, 2, 3; College Band, 1, 2, 3; Glee Club, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2, 3.

Class: Operetta "Trial by Jury."

Society: Pianist 1st half of 3d year.

Once there was a triumvirate composed of Bowers, Bowers, and Steiner; now Steiner alone remains to carry on. Steiner mixes his business with his pleasure for the exceedingly simple reason that his trumpet playing is both his business and his pleasure. We find him continuously at the conservatory practicing on the instrument which he handles so capably, and such interest in his chosen field as Steiner displays certainly fortells a successful career for him in music.

When Hen dates, it is always with a certain girl from his home city of Harrisburg, for when we see him at a campus dance he is always escorting the same better half.

One of Steiner's prime characteristics is a certain quietude. To few of us has his true personality been revealed, but "still waters run deep" and we all fully realize that Henry is a chap well worth knowing.

D. ROMAINE STILES; French; Delphian: RED LION
College: Y. W. C. A., 3, Secretary; W. S. G. A., 3, Secretary; May Day Program, 1, 2.

Society: Judiciary Committee, 1, Recording Secretary, 2, Treasurer, 3.

For two years Romaine seemed to be tucked away safely within the walls of South Hall. We saw her in classes but scarcely heard her, when suddenly this year some one said, "Woof-Woof" and Romaine was "Raring" to go. Now we see much of Romaine and her sunny disposition.

Last year when our "Y" Cabinets invested money in material for costuming the May Day participants, it was through the untiring efforts of Romaine and her assistants that the pageant met with such a tremendous success. She's a whiz with a needle and a pair of scissors.

Furthermore, Romaine is very adept as a French student. This may all link up with her ability to stitch and hem. There is no doubt in our minds but that some day we may see her competing with Chanel and Schiaparelli, and Vogue will be displaying "Styles by Romaine."

CHESTER A. STINEMAN, JR.; Public School Music, Kalo: HARRISBURG
College: Band, 1, 2, 3, Drum Major, 2, 3; Glee Club, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2, 3;

Symphony Orchestra, 1, 2, 3; College Orchestra, 1, 2, 3; "Trial by Jury," 1.

Class: Football, 2; Tug-of-war, 2.

Never does our snappy college band pass in review that we do not hear some admiring sighs from the feminine group concerning our handsome drum major. Not only is Chet the high-stepping baton-wielder, but he is also the chap who is largely responsible for the planning and designing of the intricate drills performed by the band.

This tall, dark, good-looking chap commutes from Harrisburg and takes quite an active part in the musical and social activities on the campus. A bass fiddler of no mean ability is Chet. Not only is he a member of our college symphony, but he also has the honor of being a member of the well known Harrisburg Symphony Orchestra.

Because of his scintillating personality, his musical ability, and his unusual initiative, Chet should find a prominent place in the musical world.

Louis Ernest Straub

Flora Mae Strayer

Edwin Homer Tallman

LOUIS ERNEST STRAUB; Bible-Greek: Philo: REYNOLDS, INDIANA
College: Green Blotter, 1, 2, 3, President, 3; Life Work Recruits, 1, 2, 3; Y. M. C. A., 2, 3, Publicity Chairman, 3; Men's Senate, 2, 3; La Vie Collegienne, 2, 3, News Editor; May Day Program, 1, 2.

Class: Quittapahilla Staff, Business Manager, 3; Basketball, 1, 2; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

Society: Chaplain, 1; Secretary, 2; Chairman of Executive Committee, 3.

One of the most interesting students on the campus is our friend Louis. Because of his unusual experiences in life before he came to Lebanon Valley he is a real cosmopolitan. Among his accomplishments are his forceful public speaking, his interesting prose writing, his clever poetic endeavors, and his dramatic performances.

Because of his unusual ability in so many lines Louie should be one of the most successful and outstanding of ministers. Having a host of admiring followers, he proves his worthiness of them by his initiative, his loyalty to an ideal, and his congenial personality. As a side issue he seems to have a peculiar interest in music—especially violin playing. This inspiration coupled with his own unique qualities are an indomitable combination. Here's to the best the world has to offer to you, Louie!

FLORA MAE STRAYER; English: MCKEESPORT
College: Shenandoah, 1, 2; Life Work Recruits, 3.

This quiet young lady is a transfer student from Shenandoah College, but she is still greatly interested in that institution and receives frequent visits from a certain young man who attends that school.

Flora once again disproves that oft-negated statement that preacher's children are less lax in their conduct than children of parents in other walks of life. Flora spends much of her time studying, her excellent recitations in the classroom indicating that her labors are bearing fruit. She is conscientious not only in her studies, but also in anything she undertakes.

Flora is majoring in English and preparing to enter the teaching profession. Because she possesses so many of those qualities necessary for a successful teacher, we feel safe in predicting that Flora will attain a prominent place in her chosen profession.

EDWIN HOMER TALLMAN; Chemistry-Biology: LEBANON
College: Chemistry Club, 1, 2.

Class: Football, 2.

This nice looking, suave, curly-haired, lad is one of Lebanon's contributions to the cause and greater glory of science.

He's a pre-med student, a major in chemistry and biology, and this year he has achieved what he considers a perfect schedule—an all-scientific course, labs every afternoon except Friday, and no fooling around with the vainglories of culture. His feet are firmly and irrevocably planted on the sod and he clamors for truth, simple and unadorned. That's a pretty large order and consequently he hasn't much time, nor even the inclination, for the softer, sweeter pleasures of life.

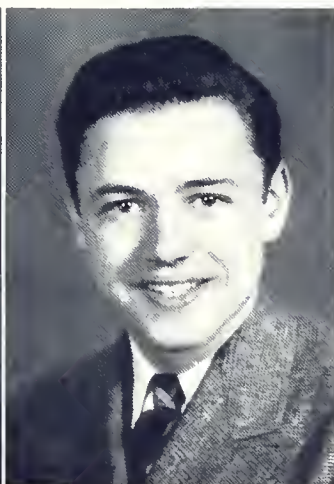

Ed is a quiet, gay, polite, and really interesting chap who forces himself on nobody and asks few favors. His constant hard work will have its reward in the less transitory fame of reality for this pre-medico.

John W. Trego

Rose Stuart Tschopp

Duey E. Unger

JOHN W. TREGO; Biology; Philo; EPHRATA

College: May Day Program, 1, 2; Basketball, 3.

Class: Basketball, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1, 2.

The Class of '37 got John as a present from the Class of '35. After two years of college life, he decided to quit the halls of L. V. C. and join Uncle Sam's ranks. During his absence from his native section he spent time in New Orleans, was stationed at Fort Howard and finally became a host at a gas station in Florida.

Besides being well traveled, John is likewise well read. His contacts and experiences enable him to carry on very animated conversations, his skill at bridge also contributing to make him a delightful companion.

Great men have said, "Home is where the heart is," and so it is with John. We believe he's lost that certain something in Reading. Future years may see this reserved young gentleman in one of the country's biology research laboratories or perhaps as Dr. Trego from the Class of '37.

ROSE STUART TSCHOPP; Voice; Delphian; CHAMBERSBURG

College: Penn Hall, 1, 2; Life Work Recruits, 3; Girls' Band, 3; Glee Club, 3.

Society: Judiciary Committee, 3.

Rose joined our ranks this year after having spent two years at Penn Hall. At first we didn't know her very well although she made many friends and greatly impressed us with her quiet unassuming air. Then the gods smiled and Rose bloomed; very soon we became aware of her potentialities. This quiet, demure young lady is one of our silver-tongued sopranos, and one of the very best, too. We predict a very promising future for her in this line.

There seems to be that tendency at Lebanon Valley for girls to look cross-eyed at the male side of the house. And sure enough Rose has found herself an attraction there. Co-education agrees with her and she is pleased with her choice of schools. All seems rose for Rose even though Elwood's such a tease.

DUEY E. UNGER; Biology; Kalo; HARRISBURG

College: Y. M. C. A., 3, Treasurer; Men's Senate, 2, 3, Secretary-Treasurer, 3; Student-Faculty Council, 3; La Vie Collegienne, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2.

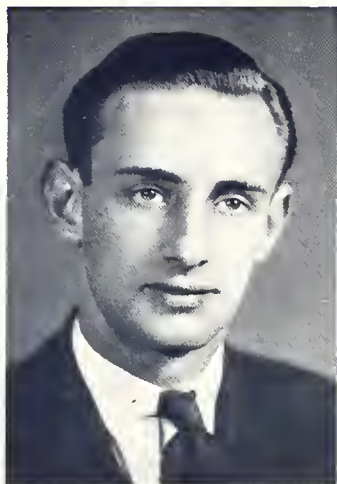

Class: President, 1; Quittapahilla Staff, 3; Basketball, 1, 2; Football, 1; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1.

Society: Sergeant-at-arms, 1; Vice-President, 3; "As Husbands Go."

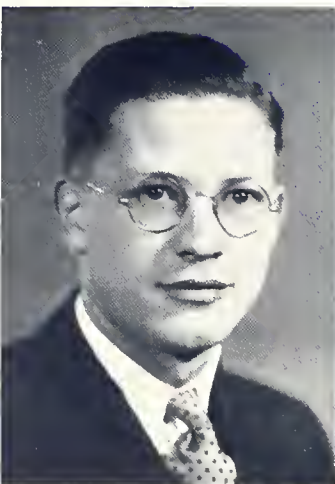

The Junior Class is proud to claim Duey as one of its members. Duey has been outstanding in class activities ever since his freshman days when he was the class president. Will we ever forget our secret freshman hike which Duey helped make successful? It was the first hike of that type in the history of the school that wasn't raided by the sophomores. Duey has further proved his ability as a leader, as an officer of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet and Men's Senate and as a prominent worker in Kalozetean Literary Society.

Until his Junior year Duey was practically immune from the evils of the opposite sex. This year, however, a certain South Hall freshman has claimed Duey's attention, and we congratulate him on his fine selection.

May you be as successful in life, Duey, as you have been in college.

Earl C. Unger

Paul Kenneth Waltz

Mary Gilbert Webb

EARL C. UNGER; Music; Kalo: SCHUYLKILL HAVEN

College: Band, 1, 2, 3; Glee Club, 2; Symphony Orchestra, 1, 2, 3; College Orchestra, 1.

The first and foremost thing which we consider when we think of Earl is his accomplished trumpet playing. Ever since he came to Lebanon Valley as a Freshman he has thrilled us with his outstanding ability on this instrument. His unusual talents are not confined to the rendition of numbers, however, as Earl has gained quite a reputation as an arranger and composer.

This talented young man is studying to be a music supervisor, and unless we miss our guess, he will be a very capable and efficient one. Although he devotes much of his time to music, he has not merely confined his interests to one field. Earl possesses the ability to enjoy hearing and telling a good joke, and his weekly treks to Schuylkill Haven indicate that his social life has not been neglected. Here's success to a promising musician and a real sport.

PAUL KENNETH WALTZ; Biology-Chemistry; Kalo: HERSHEY

College: Band, 2.

Friend Paul originally hails from Altoona. Although he spent his first year at Juniata Junior College, Waltz has made up for lost time in the matter of making friends, this of course being due to his friendly nature and straightforward manner.

The activities and interests of this energetic young man are legion. As a practical-minded and perseverant pre-med student he spends much of his time in the laboratories. In his official capacity as head-usher at the Hershey Theatre he secretly studies human nature as he blandly smiles to the theatre patrons. Furthermore Waltz somehow finds time to be in the canary business, to read extensively, attend ice hockey games, and indulge in a bit of hiking and hunting in season.

If personal worth is any guarantee of success we feel safe in predicting the best for Waltz.

MARY GILBERT WEBB; Latin; Delphian; GETTYSBURG

College: Girls' Band, 1, 2, 3; May Day Program, 1, 2.

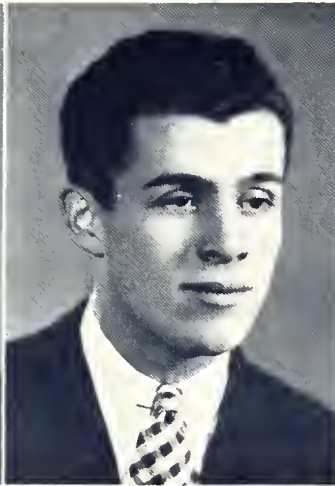

Society: Corresponding Secretary, 2; Chaplain, 2; Judiciary Committee, 2.

Mary is quietly unassuming, yet definitely sure of herself and what she wants. She has a natural wit that is at its best when she is among a small group. Mary is not nearly so quiet among her friends as she seems to those who do not know her very well. She has proven herself an energetic worker who goes about her work in an orderly manner and gets it done without any fuss or seeming bother. Perhaps this is the reason why her accomplishments have not always been recognized.

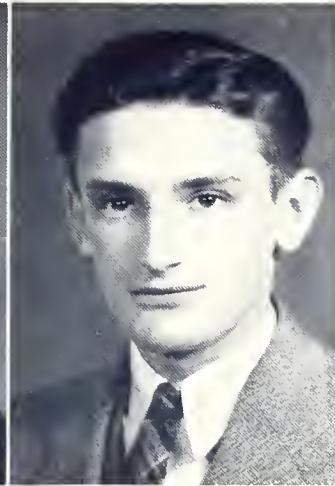

Mary makes an efficient waitress, and we have no doubt that she would be an ideal housewife. She plans to teach first, however. Mary is the type of person who seems to feel, and rightly too, that the world can't be made up of all leaders. She is content to let someone else use the aggressive method of getting along in this world, while she moves just as surely in an un-obtrusive way.

Pauline K. Yeager

Wm. H. Zierdt, Jr.

John H. Zimmerman

PAULINE K. YEAGER; Latin: Clio; HUMMELSTOWN

College: May Day Program, 2, 3.

Often seen but seldom heard, Pauline each day makes the trip from Hummelstown to Annville where she maintains a scholastic record which she established in her home town high school. Those who frequent the day students' room know her best and have the benefit of her quiet, easy manner.

There are several reasons why Pauline doesn't spend more time here at school. First, she is an assistant in her father's general store and second, she's quite an active member in the Hummelstown Dramatic Club. Producing a play a month in addition to other activities is plenty of work. We have lots of confidence in her and hope she will sometime display her dramatic ability on our campus.

She has chosen Latin and French as those subjects in which she wants to interest some of the willing youth of the public schools.

WM. H. ZIERDT, JR.; English: Kalo; INDIANTOWN GAP

Class: Basketball, 1, 2; Football, 1, 2; Tug-of-war, 1, 2; Flag Scrap, 1.

Society: Minstrels, 3.

A "regular fellow" is Bill, the sort who thrives on sociability and can be the life of the party anywhere. He enjoys friends, and at the same time is willing to give as much as he takes from a friendship. His easy wit and hearty laugh together with his sociable nature make him most attractive to both friends and acquaintances.

Bill's seeming nonchalance hides a really ambitious personality. He works hard outside of school—sometimes so hard that he does not have as much time as he would like for his college work. We have been informed that Bill, through experience, is well versed in the art of planning and buying for the table. His wife won't have to know how to cook.

Bill prefers the company of a personable young co-ed to his many other activities and always finds enough time in his busy days for this pleasant diversion.

JOHN H. ZIMMERMAN; Chemistry: Philo; MANHEIM

Class: Flag Scrap, 1.

The first year of his college life Zimmerman spent as a resident of the men's dormitory, but as his home at Manheim is not far from Annville, he subsequently identified himself with that group of hardy souls who daily battle the elements and brave the dangers of the road in a sometimes vain effort to be on time for eight o'clock classes.

John is a keen-minded fellow and indeed his very physiognomy is indicative of the fact. In addition to being naturally intelligent, he is an industrial student with all the patience and perseverance so essential for success in his chosen field of chemistry.

Zimmerman is rather quiet, phlegmatic, and undemonstrative, yet not at all unfriendly. His calm, even-tempered good nature might well be taken as an example by anyone disposed to evaluate his own characteristics. We feel assured that he will methodically plod his way to a high place as a chemical expert.

ALTHOUGH this volume presents typical yearbook material in an essentially orthodox fashion, the staff of the 1937 QUITTAPAHILLA sincerely hopes that this publication will prove interesting and at the same time sufficiently adequate to portray capably the events of the college year and to offer a permanent record of the organizations and activities governing our campus existence.

In the section devoted to the Junior Class, the staff has tried to present character sketches of the individual members of the class which is responsible for the publication of this volume. In the section devoted to activities we have tried to convey something of the spirit of the various campus organizations. In the campus section we have attempted photographically to portray the beauties of our college surroundings. The feature sections, including the work of the candid cameraman, the calendar of events, and the portraits of those elected by student vote as representative of particular abilities, are presented by way of adding a bit of variety to the publication.

The staff of the 1937 QUITTAPAHILLA has attempted to produce a volume which will serve in the future as a valuable memorial of the events of the college year 1935-1936, and herewith presents this volume for your approval.

Last year this honorary fraternity, Phi Alpha Epsilon, was founded on the LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE campus as a counterpart of the national scholarship fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa.

Students who have maintained an average of 88 per cent. or better during the first three and a half years of their college life and are of good moral character are eligible for membership in the organization.

Founded to serve as a means of acknowledging the scholarship proficiency of worthy students, Phi Alpha Epsilon promises to become an important organization in the promotion of a wholesome interest in scholastic activity on the L. V. C. campus.

Another newly-constituted campus organization is the student-faculty council, designed to serve as an important connecting link between the faculty and students at LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE.

Composed of the presidents of the men's senate and the W. S. G. A. board, two members selected from each class, and six faculty representatives, the coordinating board has met with a great deal of success during its first year of existence on the campus.

Meeting once a month, the council considers suggestions submitted by students regarding campus problems and refers them to the appropriate committees or organizations with suitable recommendations for action. Among the most outstanding changes in the life of the college which have been brought about largely through the influence of the council have been accomplished through the sponsoring of the recently-established semi-weekly social hours, the active opposition to the publication of semester grades, and the support of a change in the routine of chapel programs.

If the first year's activity may be taken as a fair indication of future worth, it seems certain that the student-faculty council will in the future be the body charged with the progressive development of every phase of campus life.

THE Men's Senate is the governing body of the enrolled men students in LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE. It is composed of male representatives from the four classes and is headed by a president elected by the Senate members from among the Senior representatives. Six Seniors, five Juniors, three Sophomores, and one Freshman are elected to membership in the Senate by individual class vote upon lists of nominees selected by the faculty.

The Senate is a legislative, executive, and judicial group, formed for the purpose of enabling the men students to govern their own conduct. Senate members are sworn to "observe and administer the laws of the Senate in letter and spirit." It is the responsibility of the Senate to set up and enforce such rules as are necessary to the maintenance of good conduct among the male students of the college. It is the right and duty of the Senate to pass judgment on and to punish, if necessary, any infraction of the rules or any social misconduct of any male students. The Senate is also expected to make proper suggestions to the administration regarding any possible means of improving campus and dormitory life and morale of the college's men students.

W. S. G. A.

OFFICERS

THE Women's Student Government Association, the organization composed of all regularly matriculated students of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE, aspires to a goal of perfect order and decorum in the vicinity of the college, at social functions, and in associations with men students.

An executive board which meets with the approval of the faculty is elected by the members of the Association as a governing body empowered to act for the Association in all matters of student conduct. Five faculty members of this reigning board's own selection serve in an advisory capacity. Members of the board for the ensuing year are elected at an annual meeting of the Association held each May. Another general assembly is held at the opening of the school term for the purpose of reading the constitution and by-laws to the entire membership of the Association. After this meeting the executive board no longer recognizes ignorance of the rules as a legitimate excuse for any infractions of the regulations approved by the Association.

In order that the W. S. G. A. might best attain its goals, sets of rules have been drawn up by which the women govern themselves.

The abolishment of Freshmen rules has enabled the W. S. G. A. to turn its attention more steadily on the attainment of its ultimate goals, and the past year has seen great strides toward a more perfect woman's self-government organization on this campus.

THE Young Men's Christian Association at L. V. C. aims primarily to promote Christian living among the men students of the college. It determines its policies with the object of furthering in the best possible way the establishment of true Christian standards in the minds and hearts of the students.

The Association has attempted to attain this end through informal meetings, through joint sessions with the Y. W. C. A., through the "big brother" movement and the publication of the "L" handbook, and through prayer circle groups. The "big brother" plan and the Freshman handbook are of especial benefit in aiding new students to accustom themselves to campus life, while the other activities mentioned are designed to benefit students during their entire four years of college life.

Activity of the Y. M. C. A. has been extended to the social phase as well as the religious phase of campus development. In conjunction with its sister organization, the Y. W. C. A., it has taken a large part of the responsibility for the annual May Day pageant and has sponsored numerous social gatherings throughout the school year. The organization annually sends delegates to numerous "Y" conferences, and as a result LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE is continuously obtaining the benefit of the latest approved methods of Y. M. C. A. administration.

Y. W. C. A. membership at L. V. C. includes all regularly-matriculated women students. The organization's work is carried on through a cabinet of representatives chosen at a general election in which all the members participate.

The Y. W. C. A. assists new women students in adjusting themselves more easily to life at Lebanon Valley College and attempts to show its members how to take best advantage of the opportunities offered during their four years of college life. It promotes Christian ideals of love, sacrifice, and fellowship, and helps each girl to develop the mental, physical, moral, and spiritual phases of her life.

The Young Women's Christian Association sponsors many activities during the school year. The organization takes charge of the May Day festivities, cooperates with the administration in making Freshman Week a success, annually arranges a Hallowe'en party and a Christmas banquet, and sponsors various other functions.

The "big sister" movement, designed to aid incoming students in adapting themselves to their new life, and the "heart sister" week, which attempts to establish better relations among the students, are both promoted by the Y. W. C. A. Both of these projects have met with a great deal of success and have found a very definite place in the social life of the women students at L. V. C.

LA VIE COLLEGIENNE is the weekly news publication of the students of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE. In its eleventh year of existence, this newspaper provides training in journalism for those students who are interested in furthering their education along this line of work.

La Vie attempts to reflect the attitude of the student body in its editorial and feature columns. It recounts past events in a complete and interesting way and accurately foretells coming events. A collection of a year's issues of the college newspaper is a valuable record of the varied activities on the L. V. C. campus.

ALTHOUGH the existence of this organization on the LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE campus dates back only to November, 1932, the Green Blotter Club has firmly established itself as a worthy addition to the literary organization of L. V. C. The club was founded for the purpose of stimulating writing activity and improving creative and individual thinking in the field of journalism.

The organization is composed of sixteen members, two men and two women representatives from each class. Membership is obtained by the approval of a manuscript submitted to be read and judged by the club.

The club meets every third Thursday of the month at the home of the faculty adviser, Dr. George G. Struble, when the various members of the club present some original writing either in the form of a short story, a poem, a biography, a character sketch, an essay, a treatise, or a representative of the countless branches of creative writing. Each author reads his own manuscript before the group and the members constructively criticize the work.

Guests are frequently invited to these interesting meetings—sometimes faculty members, other times persons from off the campus who are well versed in the field of literature. Many new and clever projects spring from the suggestions of these worthy guests.

The Green Blotter offers a fine opportunity for all who are interested in creative writing to engage in interesting and helpful work in the advanced stages of literary art.

[illegible]

The organization meets the second Tuesday of each month at the home of Dr. Wallace. Meetings are devoted to reviews of representative works from all fields of modern literature and general expressions of opinion and open forum discussions regarding these works. The only requirement for membership in the Readers' Club is the possession of a genuine interest in books, magazines, radio broadcasts, newspapers, and the theatre—in short, an interest in everything that contributes to the development of certain trends in the national literature.

The club aims to stimulate a greater interest in contemporary literature and to induce LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE students to keep in closer touch with modern developments through intelligent application of spare time to recreational reading and literary study.

THIS organization is interested primarily in the aesthetic development of L. V. C. campus life and attempts to substitute grace and beauty for the meagre, unartistic dictates of necessity.

Originally, membership in the club was open only to the feminine element of the student body, but two years ago admission of male students was approved, and the presence of several men in the organization has disclosed a valuable source of new ideas. During the past year new programs and projects have been undertaken by the Gallery.

This club annually takes charge of the campus Christmas decorations and has employed unusual lighting effects and many colorful ornaments in new arrangements which accentuate the brightness of the pre-Christmas season and tend to make it one of the most delightful periods in the entire school year.

Talents of Rogues' Gallery members are responsible for the designing of the many and varied posters and placards that appear on the bulletin boards from time to time to announce coming events of general campus interest. In addition, the organization has spent much of its time in making a study of the works of the old masters and contrasting these works with the efforts of present-day painters. A great deal of time has also been spent in a study of interior decorating and its possibilities in respect to this campus.

The Rogues' Gallery has based its programs and policies on the theory that the development of artistic appreciation is as essential to a well-rounded existence as the development of any other cultural phase of life.

[illegible]

The aim of the club has been that of understanding the basic principles of good citizenship considered from both the national and the international points of view and thereby developing a proper attitude toward world politics. With this end in view, the members study and interpret political, social, and economic events, thus stimulating individual thinking and providing an opportunity for considering the opinions of others according to correct parliamentary procedure.

The meetings of the organization have been particularly well attended and enthusiastically received this year, with discussions of topics of current interest being entered into earnestly and intelligently by everyone in attendance. The club has served as a valuable training ground for the debating team members, the experience and knowledge gained in the I. R. C. discussions standing them in good stead in their intercollegiate events.

The club has made great strides during the past year and has attracted a group larger and more varied in interests than ever before. The I. R. C. has a very definite value in assisting to broaden the outlook of students who are wont to become narrow-minded and lacking in proper perspective. Its future promises much in the way of promoting a real campus interest in beyond-the-campus history.

RESOLVED: that Congress should be empowered to override, by a two-thirds vote, decisions of the United States Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional." This timely question was the subject debated by the forensic teams representing LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE in intercollegiate competition.

The women's schedule included dual debates with Kutztown State Teachers College, Ursinus, Bucknell University, and Juniata and a single debate with Gettysburg College. The men met teams representing Elizabethtown College, Lincoln University, Albright, and Western Maryland in dual debates and Ursinus in a single debate. The male negative duo went through the season undefeated to top the L. V. C. teams, all of which met with considerable success in their engagements.

Dr. E. H. Stevenson and Professor Milton L. Stokes coached the teams through their successful season. Home debates were staged in Philo Hall and were for the most part well-attended and enthusiastically received. Debating has attained a high place in L. V. C. life and promises to hold its place permanently as an institution of social and intellectual benefit.

THIS active organization, the Life Work Recruits, composed of students who have planned to devote their lives to Christian work in the ministry or as missionaries or choir workers, is an important influence in the spiritual development of student life.

Regular meetings are held each week at which either a prominent speaker appears before the group to deliver an inspirational message or an open forum discussion occupies the chief attention of the group. The organization also provides for special and personal interviews with religious leaders whenever they appear on the campus.

Probably the most important work of the organization is that which is under the direction of the deputation committee. Deputations are sent to many churches in nearby counties, with every phase of the regular church service including the sermon and special music conducted by the society. This practical experience has a very definite value to participating students in preparing them to undertake careers of religious service.

Probably the outstanding innovation of the year for this organization was the decision to present a major stage production, and as this book goes to press, the Recruits are completing plans for the presentation of "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

Under the capable guidance of Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Richie and Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Wilt, the organization has made great strides during the past year, and has demonstrated again and again its worth as a training institution for religious workers and as an excellent spiritual influence in everyday college activities.

THE Chemistry Club, organized in the spring of 1929 by Dr. Andrew Bender, is the only organization of its kind on the campus. It is devoted entirely to chemical science, and its members discuss and investigate various discoveries and theories presented to the chemical world today.

Meetings are held once a month and the members review scientific books, new applications of chemistry in industry, and the newest theories and problems in chemistry. In addition, investigations are made into the hectic lives of the founders of modern chemistry and science. The method employed by the Chem Club in conducting its meetings is rather unusual. Various members investigate books and topics and report on them before the club. Members are then free to ask questions and in this manner lively and spirited discussions are opened. Some of the most interesting activities of the Chemistry Club consist of occasional trips to various industries where chemistry plays an important part. These trips are highly entertaining as well as instructive, as they give the members an opportunity to see how industrial chemistry functions and to appreciate the major part that it plays in great industries.

Dr. Bender, as advisor of the group, is a constant contributor of valuable information. And his expert knowledge, coupled with the constant cooperation of all the members of the club, has succeeded in establishing the organization in a high place in the scientific life of the college.

THE Commerce Club was organized by the business administration department with the purpose of acquainting students with present business activities and problems. It endeavors to familiarize the business students with the application of classroom theories to the actual operation of a modern business. Prominent men from representative fields address the group from time to time and tell the members just how their own particular business is conducted. After these addresses the members of the group are permitted to ask questions and enter into open forum discussions. In this way the club obtains a really intimate knowledge of the problems confronting business. There are also student reports on topics not generally treated in a detailed way in the course of routine classroom discussion.

The club makes occasional trips to prominent business houses. Here the club members not only see the various departments of modern business, but they learn how these component parts are welded into an efficiently—integrated business house.

Under the guiding hand of Professor M. L. Stokes the club has reached a position of great importance on our campus. Its importance as a connecting link between college life and commercial enterprise is readily seen; the activities of the Commerce Club have enabled graduates of the business course to adjust themselves better to commercial life.

With Harold Phillips, widely experienced stage man, as its president, the Wig and Buckle has produced in the last two years such successes as "The Rector", "The Man in the Boulder Hat" and "The Late Cristopher Bean."

This year the Wig and Buckle Club, with the aid of the band and the several literary societies, purchased a rather complete set of equipment for lighting the stage. This equipment is composed of several spotlights and a triple bank of dimmers. With the aid of these facilities a new professional tone has been introduced into dramatic presentations on the LEBANON VALLEY CAMPUS.

The Wig and Buckle Club Presents "The Late Christopher Bean"

Sylvia Harclerode capably handled the role of Abby, with the patient but resolute characteristics of the idealistic maid portrayed effectively. Her quiet but determined manner dominated the action whenever she appeared on the stage. Robert Spohn gave an excellent interpretation of the role of Dr. Haggett, middle-aged doctor who turns for a half day from his "gentle thoughts of a medical description" to become a scheming, greedy materialist.

Mrs. Haggett, domestic goad of her medically-minded husband, was enacted by Anna Morrison, with the proper proportions of explosiveness, greed, and sweetness being combined to form a realistic interpretation of the role. Ada, tearful and temperamental daughter of the Haggetts, was represented by Dorothy Kreamer, and Susan Haggett, the sweet young sister of Ada, was played by Louise Stoner, each of these dramatists giving live and interesting characterizations.

Susan Haggett is the heroine in the love-plot with Walter Creamer as the hero. This latter role was enacted by Lester Krone, stage veteran, in perfect swaggering manner which ably presented all the traits of a typical young man possessing an inferiority complex.

Robert Tilford gave a convincing interpretation of the part of Davenport, an art critic who reveals the true worth of the Chris Bean paintings. He offered a pleasing contrast to the two villainous swindlers, Rosen and Tallant, represented by Fred Saylor and William Clark.

Saylor and Tilford served as stage manager and stage technician respectively and prepared an attractive setting for the action. Harold Phillips was responsible for the make-up of the characters.

Dr. George G. Struble deserves a great deal of commendation for the excellent coaching of the production which brought out all the fast-moving action provided in the script and made Howard's characters come to active life on the L. V. C. stage.

THE JUNIOR CLASS PRE- SENTS

"The Admirable Crichton"

MEMBERS of the Junior Class presented "The Admirable Crichton," four-act J. M. Barrie comedy, in Engle Hall, Wednesday evening, December 11. Produced under the capable direction of Dr. George G. Struble and Harold Phillips, the play, with its clever characterizations and its three distinct stage settings provided interesting entertainment for the audience in attendance at the annual performance.

The plot of "The Admirable Crichton" centers about the conflicting views of Lord Loam and his butler, Crichton, in respect to social equality. The former contends that all men should live on the same social plane and places his ideas into active practice in his household contacts with his servants. Crichton, on the other hand, is a firm believer in the leadership of the masses by a chosen few, who subordinate the wishes of others to their own.

The theories of the two are tested when Lord Loam and his party become lost on a desert island for two years and are forced to set up their own civilization in the very rudest of surroundings. Crichton assumes complete control of the party on the island and accomplishes marvelous things in improving their desolate habitation, while Lord Loam and his followers become subservient to the wishes of the butler and come to admire his powerful leadership qualities.

Lady Mary, the haughty daughter of Lord Loam, falls in love with Crichton on the island. But the party is rescued and returns to England, where the aristocratic peers again occupy their former station in life, although Lord Loam has definitely overthrown his ideals of social equality.

The outstanding role of the play is that of the butler, Crichton, who was ably portrayed, first in his servile humility and then in his despotic island power, by Kenneth Eastland, who handled a difficult interpretation in excellent fashion. Lois Harbold occupied the leading feminine role, presenting the two-sided life of Lady Mary in a finished performance. The haughty superiority of Mary's English life and the contrasting vitality and humility of her island life were brought out effectively by Miss Harbold.

A clever characterization of the role of Lord Brocklehurst, the asinine peer who finally wins the affections of Lady Mary, was given by Karl Flocken, and his battle-axe mother, Lady Brocklehurst, was enacted by Martha Faust.

Lord Loam, the haughty but none-too-intelligent English aristocrat, was portrayed by Charles Kinney. Character roles which tended to emphasize the change in the lives of the leading characters included: the maid, Tweeny, who was portrayed by Maxine Earley; Lady Mary's two sisters Catherine and Agatha, played by Marjorie Smith and Grace Naugle; the epigrammatic Ernest, nephew of Lord Loam, portrayed by William Earnest; and Treherne, quiet and unassuming peer, played by Woodrow Himmelright.

The scenic effects of the production were especially well done. The setting of the play is transferred from the Loam House to a desert island and back to the aristocratic home and requires a vast amount of properties. Edward Schmidt and Allen Rutherford

ALTHOUGH originally organized chiefly as a literary club, the Clionian Literary Society, during the past sixty-five years, has gradually discarded most of its literary tendencies and has substituted in their stead the necessary social ideas that are creeping in to aid in the development of campus social life to its fullest extent.

The fine old traditions of Minerva and the Owl, its symbolic patronesses, have not been entirely swept away, but the society has aimed chiefly in recent years to promote sociability and a better appreciation of the finer things in life. Various social functions, including dances in the college gym, joint sessions with one or the other of the male literary societies, and teas, are sponsored by the Clionians in an effort to make the social life of the college more interesting and varied. Clio has probably been most prominent among the societies in securing innovations for the social betterment of the college.

The most important Clionian event of the college year was the celebration of the sixty-fifth anniversary with a formal dance given at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel in Reading last December.

Clio worked with Philo in the presentation of "Children of the Moon" last spring and is now cooperating with its brother-organization in preparing "A Bill of Divorcement" for presentation.

THE oldest organization on the campus, Philokosmian Literary Society, continues in its sixty-ninth year to maintain its high place among the leading organizations of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE. Philo has during all its years of existence recognized the value of friendship, good-will, and cooperation and realized that the social development is as essential as the intellectual development in the molding of a well-rounded life. Through joint sessions and periodical meetings the Philos promote such a feeling of good-will, and it is through these activities that the society aids its members to get along in the best possible way with their fellow men.

Philo and the Chionian Literary Society combined in the production of last year's dramatic hit, Martin Flavin's "Children of the Moon," presented in celebration of Philo's sixty-eighth anniversary. A formal dance held at the Berkshire Hotel, Reading, in further celebration of the anniversary, proved to be one of the high spots in the college social calendar. At the present time plans are under way for the sixty-ninth anniversary, to be marked by a joint production with Clio of Clemence Dane's "A Bill of Divorcement" and a formal dinner-dance at the Yorktown Hotel, York.

PRE-SENT

"The Children of the Moon"

MARTIN FLAVIN'S striking drama "The Children of the Moon" was presented by the Philokosmian and Clionian literary societies on May 3 on the occasion of Philo's sixty-eighth anniversary.

This tragedy, centering about a hereditary strain of insanity running through three generations of the Atherton family, had the audience continually on edge as the two literary societies combined in a very interesting presentation of the three-act work. The grandfather, Judge Atherton, suffers mental lapses whenever the full moon is at its height, and there seems to be a distinct tendency for the old man's traits to be passed on from one generation to the next, although the granddaughter, Jane Atherton, contends to the very close of the action that she is not mad.

The story revolves about the love of Jane Atherton for a young air pilot, Major John Bannister. The army officer is injured in an airplane crash near the Atherton home and remains a guest of the Athertons while he is recuperating, in the meantime falling in love with the lovely Jane. Jane's selfish mother, Laura, in an attempt to restrain her daughter from marrying Bannister, uses as a last resort the argument that Jane will ultimately be driven mad. The major part of the play is concerned with the struggle between the various characters who oppose or favor the marriage.

At the close of the play, Jane promises to marry Bannister, but the audience is left to draw their own conclusions as to the later life of the pair, for they take off in a thick fog under dangerous flying conditions, apparently setting out for the moon.

The feminine roles in the play were particularly difficult to handle, the women supplying the most tense and gripping action of the play and occupying the spotlight throughout.

Louise Stoner gave an appealing interpretation of the role of the youthful heroine, Jane Atherton, while Jean McKeag gave an excellent portrayal of the neurotic and temperamental mother, Laura Atherton. Mary Zartman capably enacted the role of Madame Atherton, the kindly old lady who strongly favors the marriage of Jane and Bannister.

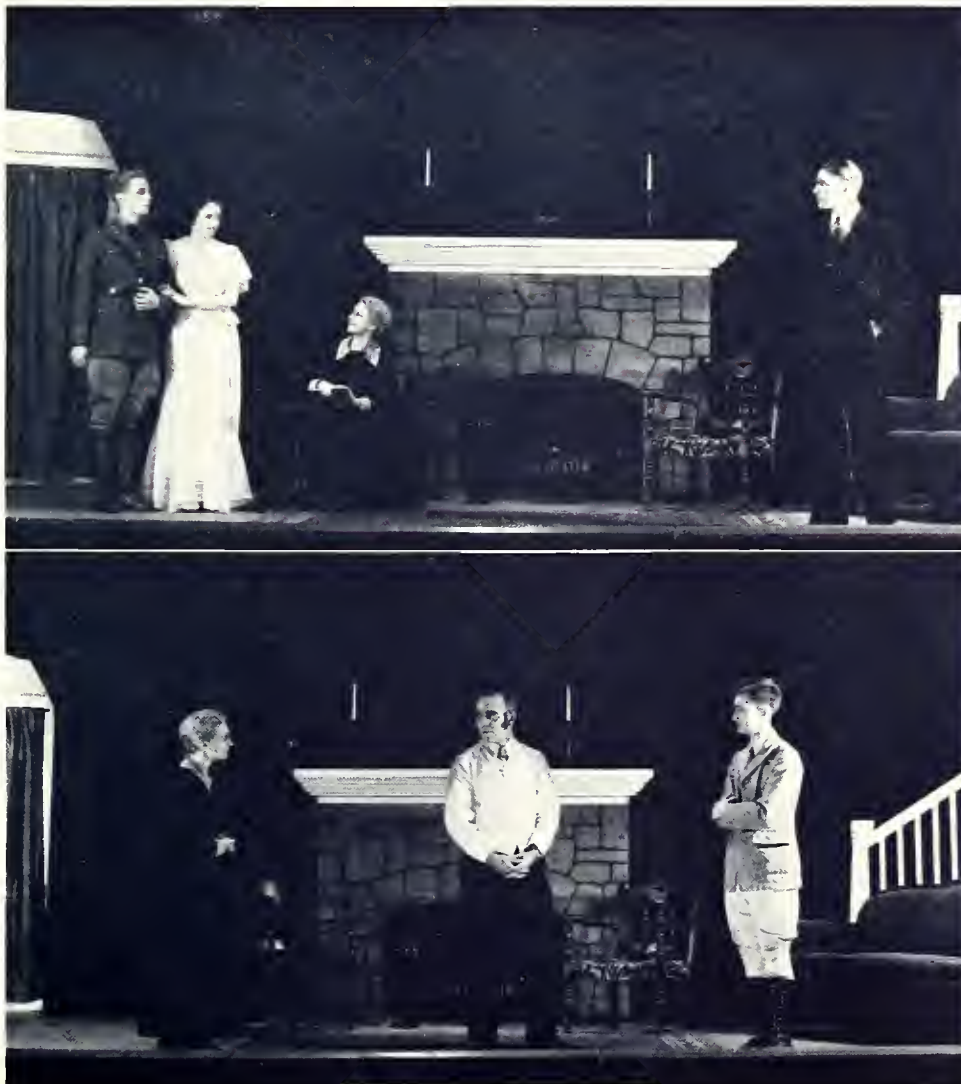

Lester Krone occupied the role of Major John Bannister, and Allen Steffy filled the role of the slightly-mad Judge Atherton. Kenneth Sheaffer was a strong and impressive Dr. Wetherell. Minor roles supplying a touch of humor to the tragic story were represented by Clyde Magee as Thomas, the butler, and William Earnest as Walter Higgs, Bannister's mechanic.

Direction of the excellent production was handled by Dr. George G. Struble, and the complete approval with which the audience received the presentation was a real tribute to his skill in interpreting lines and situations to the best advantage. Lighting and other stage effects were the work of Harold Phillips.

KALO-DELPHIAN PRESENT

"You and I"

KALOZETEAN and Delphian literary societies presented as their annual dramatic production "You and I," clever three-act comedy from the pen of Philip Barry. The plot, which places the characters alternately in intensely dramatic situations and amusing predicaments, was accentuated by ingenious character interpretations and proved to be a fast-moving and delightful entertainment for the large audience in attendance March 27 in Engle Hall.

Maitland White, successful middle-aged businessman, confronts the problem of leaving undeveloped his artistic talents while he continues in his business work or giving up his position and his station in life to devote the remainder of his life to art; his architecturally-talented son faces the same problem from the angle of a youth choosing between an art career or marriage and the accompanying expedient business life.

White is finally urged by his self-sacrificing wife to enter upon an art career, but his works meet with only moderate success. At the close of the play, he decides to return to his business life in order that he might finance an adequate architectural education for his son, who has meanwhile had a rather successful but nevertheless unhappy fling at business life.

Excellent individual character interpretations by Anna Morrison, Robert Spohn, and June Gingrich featured the production. Miss Morrison, as the lovely wife of Maitland White, ably portrayed the sincere interest of that character in the happiness of her husband. She gave a consistent performance, first as the wife of the businessman Maitland White, then as the equally charming wife sacrificing her own interests for those of Maitland White, the artist. Robert Spohn was a pleasing Maitland White, presenting the whole struggle of the man with his own conscience in regard to his work, his wife, and his art. Miss Gingrich played the comic lead and proved a very interesting and amusing personality as a maid who plays a game of make-believe as a "lady" throughout most of the play.

Edgar Messerschmidt gave an able characterization of the role of G. T. Warren, a typical stage presentation of the swaggering successful man of the business world. Wilbur Leech, as the younger White, and Ella Mason, as his sweetheart, capably handled

JUNIOR PROM LEADERS

THE colorful Junior Prom, held annually in the spacious and beautiful Hershey Park Ballroom at Hershey, Pa., has established itself as the highlight of the college social season. This year's prom leader, selected by popular vote of the student body, was J. William Kirkpatrick, who in turn chose as his partner for the event Miss Louise Shearer.

Always the gayest and most delightful affair on the college calendar, the Prom has in recent years become a veritable Mecca for past as well as present LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE students on the evening of the second Friday in May.

MAY DAY

COLD and threatening weather failed to put a stop to the annual celebration of May Day on the LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE campus May 4. Featured by the appearance of Frances Holtzman as Queen of the May, Catherine Wagner as Maid of Honor, and Helen Earnest, Sarah McAdams, Anne Butterwick, Rebecca Adams, Alma Cline, and Margaret Weaver as the Court of Honor, the affair proved to be one of the most successful celebrations in recent years.

Mother Goose and her various nursery rhyme proteges held sway over the L. V. C. campus for the afternoon, with all the familiar characters of the children's stories being represented. All the dances on the program pertained to one central theme—a transfer to the land of Mother Goose, Little Miss Muffet, Simple Simon, Alice in Wonderland, Bo-Peep, Little Red Riding Hood, the Queen of Hearts, Ole King Cole, Little Boy Blue, and the Old Woman in the Shoe were present to participate in a picturesque pageant of music and dancing.

THE NEW MOLLER ORGAN

THIS past year has seen a wonderful new addition to the equipment of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE in the installation of a new four-manual pipe organ. The condition of the three-manual organ rebuilt in 1917 and the growing demands of the Conservatory Department necessitated the change. The new instrument is one of the most outstanding in the state and one of which LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE may justly be proud.

Detailed specifications for the organ were made by Professor Campbell, instructor of organ in the Conservatory, together with Mr. Whitelegg, tonal director of the Moller Company, and Mr. Ridgely of the Moller Company. The result of their joint efforts is an organ which combines the best principles of tonal ensemble and the beauty of orchestral colors. Its perfect mechanism gives wide scope for personal interpretation, dynamic expression, and varied coloring. The new organ is a source of real enjoyment for LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE students and makes our Conservatory rank with the best in modern equipment.

The installment of the Moller four-manual instrument marks another step in the steady advance of the L. V. C. Conservatory of Music to a higher and higher place among music education institutions in the state.

PICTURED on this page and the following two pages are four Seniors, four Juniors, one Sophomore, and one Freshman, representative artists selected from the student enrollment of the LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE Conservatory of Music.

These typical artists entertain L. V. C. students and friends in Friday morning chapel services and in numerous recitals and appear in the name of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE in programs presented by the boys' and girls' bands, the symphony orchestra, and the glee club throughout Pennsylvania and adjoining states.

The favorable comments with which the concerts and recitals of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE representatives are received are evidences of the high regard in which the Conservatory is held and the ability displayed by these artists attests to the excellence of the Conservatory's equipment and instruction.

"Down across the field they come,
Those boys in White and Blue"

ARE they not a handsome specimen? Our hearts leap up with pride when we see them parading on the football field, where their figure marching has won distinct honors for LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE this past year. We might attribute much of our successful football season to the inspiration of our band at most of the scenes of fray. Indeed the vision of the boys in blue and the sound of the "crashing cymbals" add much to the morale of the student body.

Not only has this organization been evident on the football side lines, but has been prominent in concert work in various cities and on the campus. Their peppy programs have been received in many communities with the greatest enthusiasm.

"PROGRESS comes by work alone," and here is a group of fair young maidens who have made a profitable use of this slogan. This past year has seen a decided increase in the quantity and quality of the activities of this organization. Its public renditions have shown good tonal balance, precision and charm; programs presented by the girls' band have been interesting and varied.

HERE is a group of talented young students of whom LEBANON VALLEY is mighty proud. The Glee Club is composed of fifty-two talented singers chosen not only from the Conservatory of Music but also from the regular college enrollment. They meet twice a week to prepare for concerts at home and in other parts of the state, where they speak admirably for the type of work done here at LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE. Their repertoire consists of both classical and lyrical music and folk songs. Throughout the past year they have distinguished themselves by the excellency of their a cappella work. This year there was introduced an interesting innovation in their concert work, in that the chorus was divided into separate groups of girls and boys, each giving their own number of selections in addition to the presentation of joint renditions.

Many thanks must be given to Professor Rutledge for so ably conducting this efficient musical organization—the LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE Glee Club.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE'S Symphony Orchestra is a group of truly great and well-trained musicians, whose work is of an exceptionally high standard, comparable to that of an organization of professionals. There are in their numbers the balance and tone of many of the large symphonic orchestras; perfect harmony and unity rule over their productions in concert. With Professor Rutledge, the polished Conservatory instructor, conducting, they have interpreted for us in many varied and interesting programs most finished interpretations of the works of the old masters and the new.

Each spring they feature prominently in the Music Festival and give us a program that can be rivaled by no near-by musical organization. Their artistry speaks the fire and enthusiasm of the great composers and provides the musical rounding out of our cultural education.

LEBANON VALLEY's athletic programs and policies for the current year and for the future are determined by this board, the Athletic Council.

The Council is composed of eight members: the president of the college, one alumnus, the athletic directors, and four faculty members. Officers are selected from among this group and frequent meetings are held so that the body might cope with the numerous problems falling within its jurisdiction. Prior to the organization of the Council, the solutions to these problems were left to the administration, but the present set-up has proved more effective in dealing with the varied difficult athletic situations.

With athletics occupying so prominent a place in college life, and with athletic policies having such a great importance in the growth and welfare of the college, the Athletic Council finds itself more and more gaining a place of great importance and influence in the management of college affairs.

SEASON'S SUMMARY

OUT AT THE INITIAL SACK

LEBANON VALLEY'S brilliant diamond artists snared the championship of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate League during the 1935 season by winning four out of five games played against league competitors, while their nearest foes, the Gettysburg Bullets and the Ursinus Bears, were each winning but three league contests.

Marvelous pitching by Paul Billett, Blue and White moundsman, along with some timely hitting and fielding by the rest of the Valleyite cast brought victories in all of the league contests except the season's final against Gettysburg, when the Bullets stopped a last ditch L. V. C. rally to land a 7-5 decision over the Blue and White.

The Flying Dutchmen opened the league season on May 5 at Huntingdon by defeating the Juniata Indians by a 5 to 1 count as Billett starred on the mound and Pat Patrizio featured at the plate. Five days later the Blue and White nine registered its second triumph by copping a 5-3 verdict over the Ursinus Bears as the Flying Dutchmen rallied to overcome a three-run lead held by the Collegeville Collegians at the start of the fifth frame. Billett again toed the slab, and Patrizio was responsible for driving the winning tally across the home plate.

VALLEY'S diamond representatives went on a batting spree on May 15 at Philadelphia when the Drexel Dragons were trounced by a score of 18 to 6 as the Valleyites racked up their third straight league win. No less than nineteen hits, five of them for extra bases, were clicked off by the Flying Dutchmen. The fourth consecutive win of the league season was registered at Lewisburg on May 25 when the Blue and White bats again proved plenty potent by registering twenty safeties in a 13 to 2 win over the Bucknell nine.

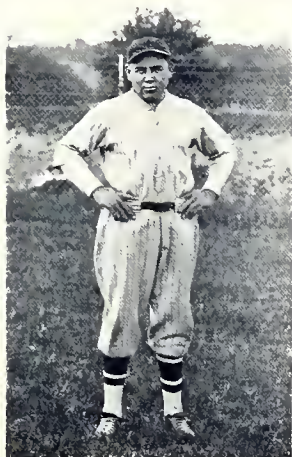

The final game of the season brought the Valleyites their only league defeat of the year as the Gettysburg Bullets proved too strong for the Flying Dutchmen on the home loam on June 1. L. V. C. outhit their Battlefield opponents but could not deliver the vital punches in the pinches and were subdued by a 7-5 count.

That LEBANON VALLEY'S nine had every right to snare the flag in the league race is clearly demonstrated by the season's statistics, which reveal the fact that the Blue and White diamond aggregation led the league in hitting and fielding; scored the largest number of runs, the most hits, the most extra base hits; and had the distinction of placing nine of its ten eligible players over the .300 mark in the final batting averages.

As a team the L. V. C. nine swatted the horsehide at a .342 clip, while the second-place team hit at a .286 rate. The fielding of the Valleyites rated them a .969 average, while the second-place team in this respect fielded at the rate of .962. The Valleyites boasted a total of 69 hits and 46 runs in five games and counted for nine two-base hits, nine three-base blows, and four home runs. Warren Mentzer, Valley View, catcher, led the sluggers with a .450 average, while Charles Rust and Paul Billett also hit over the .400 mark, the former possessing a .423 average and the latter a .409 rating. Danny Bartolet, first-sacker, was fourth in the batting scramble with a .391 mark.

Considering this record of the Valleyites, the most remarkable showing of any team since the formation of the league, it is easy to understand that the Blue and White really possessed the punch, the fielding, and the pitching ability to fully deserve the coveted league laurels.

L. V. C. NINE JOLTS JUNIATA IN LEAGUE OPENER

Patrizio's potent hitting and Paul Billett's capable hurling were largely responsible for the first league win of the Valleyites at Huntingdon on May 5. LEBANON VALLEY scored a single counter in the first inning and was never headed throughout the nine-frame battle as they landed a 5-1 triumph.

Pat, playing in the left-field spot, connected for three safeties in five trips to the plate, each of the trio of blows going for extra bases. Patrizio's hits included a double, a triple, and a circuit clout, and the Valley outer-gardner personally counted a pair of the Blue and White tallies.

L. V. C. collected ten blows off the Juniata hurling while Paul Billett permitted the Indians but seven well-scattered safe swats, no less than ten redskins biting the dust via the strikeout route. A three run rally in the sixth session clinched the decision for the Flying Dutchmen.

VALLEYITES VANQUISH URSINUS BEARS, 5 TO 3

LEBANON VALLEY came from behind to register their second league triumph of the season by a 5-3 count at Annville after their foes, the Ursinus Bears, had sported a 3-0 advantage at the start of the fifth inning.

Johnson, Ursinus moundsman, placed his team out in front in the second session with a home run clout off Paul Billett, and the Bears scored two more runs before the Flying Dutchmen managed to solve the deliveries of the Collegeville twirler in the home half of the fifth.

In this frame, safeties by Witer, Mentzer, Arndt, and Rust accounted for three runs before Beyer replaced Johnson on the hill for Ursinus. The substitute hurler subdued the rally with the score deadlocked at three-all, but the Flying Dutchmen registered a pair of counters in the seventh to land victory. Patrizio's single drove in Charlie Rust with the winning run. L. V. C. snared nine hits to eight for their foes, with Witter and Arndt the best batsmen for the VALLEY outfit. Billett's hurling was particularly effective in the pinches and no less than nine of the Bears were set back on three strikes.

DUTCHMEN DRUB DREXEL DRAGONS, 18 TO 6

LEBANON VALLEY's sluggers went to work on three Drexel pitchers in a league contest at Philadelphia on May 15 with the result that the Blue and White nine registered its third consecutive Eastern Pennsylvania League win, the final count favoring L. V. C., 18 to 6.

A continuous bombardment of nineteen safeties kept the Drexelite moundsmen on the spot for nine innings, with three big frames, the sixth, eighth, and ninth, being especially productive of trouble for the Dragon slabsters. Five, six, and four runs were registered in these innings as the Flying Dutchmen romped to an easy triumph.

A double by Paul Billett, triples by Barthold and Smith, and a home run by Billett featured the potent attack in the Blue and White batting bee. Billett's the capable right-hander, turned slugger for the day and accounted for a quartet of blows, two of them for extra bases. Rust and Barthold each boasted of three hits as their contributions, while Patrizio, Bartolet, Boran, and Witter had two apiece. The Dragons added to their own difficulties by tossing in no less than nine misplays as they met their downfall at the hands of the Blue and White.

BUCKNELL BISONS BOW BEFORE BLUE AND WHITE

Bartolet, Rust, and Billett starred in an overwhelming 13-2 LEBANON VALLEY triumph over Bucknell's nine at Lewisburg on May 25, the win being the fourth straight for the Blue and White baseballers.

Danny Bartolet, first-base guardian, slammed out four hits, including a triple and a home run; Charlie Rust, shortstop, also connected for four safeties, including a four-base blow; and Paul Billett accounted for a single, a double, and a triple while at the same time holding the hard-swinging Bisons to but six safe swats.

Nine extra-base blows were included among the twenty safeties registered by the rampaging LEBANON VALLEY sluggers. Billett fanned nine opponents in his brilliant pitching exhibition and a speedy double play topped off a snappy fielding performance by the whole L. V. C. outfit which made it a LEBANON VALLEY game all the way. The Valleyites counted three runs in the first inning and were never in the slightest danger of being defeated by the Bucknellians.

GETTYSBURG HANDS L. V. C. ONLY LEAGUE SETBACK

Gettysburg's Bullets defeated the Valleyites in the final game of the season by a 7-5 count after a well-played see-saw contest which brought out brilliant play by both of the contesting nines.

G-burg counted first in the opening half of the fourth, but L. V. C. came back in the home half of the inning to score a pair of runs. The Bullets counted another run to tie the score in the fifth, but the Valleyites retaliated with another tally. The Battlefield nine took the lead in the next session with a two-run rally, but L. V. C. came back with a single tally to equalize the count. Two runs in the seventh and another in the ninth gave the Blue and White foes a 7-4 advantage which they held despite a desperate last-session rally staged by the Flying Dutchmen.

In the home half of the ninth inning Patrizio was hit by a pitched ball after one was out, and after the second out Barthold drew a pass. A double by Boran counted Pat and placed the tying runs on the paths, but Bowers, stellar Gettysburg hurler, rose to the occasion and forced Witter to strike out, ending the game. LEBANON VALLEY counted thirteen safeties during the battle but lacked the vital punch, while the Gettysburgers registered seven tallies on eleven blows by connecting with safeties when they were most needed.

The defeat was the first in league competition for the flying Dutchmen and was not sufficient to keep the Metoxenmen from landing the championship crown.

L. V. C. DEFEATS LIONS IN NON-LEAGUE COMPETITION

A 12 to 0 trouncing handed the Albright Lions in the Annual May Day Classic featured the non-league diamond activity of the Flying Dutchmen during the 1935 season.

Consistently excellent pitching by Paul Billett and a sensational eleven-run eighth inning combined to give LEBANON VALLEY an overwhelming victory. The Blue and White right-hander gave his best hurling exhibition of the season in allowing but two safeties, both singles, issuing but one pass, and fanning the phenomenal total of seventeen Lions. A fourth Albright batsman reached first base on the only defensive error committed by the Flying Dutchmen.

Not a single Lion reached third base and but one reached second as the L. V. C. nine played excellent ball behind the brilliant twirling of their star moundsman. The eleven-run eighth, one of the biggest innings ever enjoyed by a collegiate baseball team, saw fifteen men face two Lion twirlers. Six hits, including a triple by Billett and a double by Boran, and three passes, along with several Lion errors, were responsible for the large run total registered by the Blue and White in this frame.

The whole VALLEY nine contributed heavily in the brilliant victory over the traditional Reading rivals, for the Valleyites completely outclassed their opponents in every department of the game.

In other non-league games the Flying Dutchmen met with varied success. In the season's opener at Carlisle, Dickinson's nine was victorious over the Blue and White by a score of 8 to 4 as Pete Sivess, Red Devil twirler, starred. In addition to holding the Valleyites to eight hits and four runs over the nine-inning route, the Dickinson pitcher slammed out a double with the bases loaded in the sixth session to provide the winning tallies for his team. Danny Bartolet was the only L. V. C. player who could solve the deliveries of Sivess, the big first-sacker accounting for a trio of safeties.

In the second game of the year, the strong Penn State outfit trounced the Blue and White, 11 to 1, with Lloyd Rugh limiting the VALLEY club to but three hits and Mike Kornick, State catcher, slamming a home run off John Tindall with the bases fully occupied in the first inning. The Blue and White diamond artists split even in two games with the Susquehanna Crusaders, with the contest at Selinsgrove being won by L. V. C., 6 to 0, and the Annville game going to the opposing nine, 4 to 3.

John Witter, Charlie Rust, and Butch Barthold were the outstanding performers in the Selinsgrove contest. Witter pitched his best game of the season, limiting the foes to three one-base blows, two of them of the scratch variety, while he fanned ten batsmen, walked but four, and did not permit a run in the entire ten innings of play. Rust and Barthold led the seven-hit attack on two Susquehanna twirlers. The VALLEY shortstop accounted for three bingles, one a double, while the centerfield guardian slammed out a triple and a home run as his contribution.

The 4-3 Crusader win at Annville snapped a five-game winning streak built up by the Flying Dutchmen in league and extra-league competition at mid-season. The L. V. C. stickmen outthit their opponents, twelve to nine, but left the large total of eleven runners stranded on the sacks during the final five frames.

The Susquehannas snared a 4 to 2 lead by virtue of a three-run rally in the fourth inning and managed to maintain an edge through the remaining frames, although the Blue and White did succeed in counting one tally in the seventh session.

During the last five innings eight hits were banged out by the Valleyites and four free tickets issued by Ted Yaros brought the total numbers of L. V. C. base-runners to twelve. In the fifth, the bases were filled with two gone, but Boran could not push them over the pay-off plate. In the sixth, two men were on the sacks before a man had been retired, but the VALLEY attack suddenly became impotent and the next three batsmen were retired in order. The next frame found the Blue and White able to push one of three runners over the plate, but Witter was left parked helplessly on third at the close of the eighth. The final session found two more men stranded, this time on first and second, when Yaros quelled another rally.

The inability of the Flying Dutchmen to connect in the pinches was responsible for their downfall, for Witter pitched nice ball, allowing nine hits and but four runs in the nine innings.

In the sixth and final extra-league game Albright's Lions gained a measure of revenge for their drubbing earlier in the season by rallying in the last inning to down the Blue and White, 11 to 10, at Reading on May 22.

The Lions, led by Leo Oberzut who hit five-for-five, connected freely with the offerings of Bill Smith, with a sixteen-hit attack netting them eleven runs in three big frames, the fifth, eighth, and ninth. The Flying Dutchmen did quite a bit of slugging on their own account, but they could not quite match the performance of their opponents. L. V. C. connected safely eleven times and counted ten runs, one big frame, the third, accounting for half of their total counters. Fatzinger, Lion pitcher, issued six passes, but proved rather effective in the tight spots and received credit for eleven strikeouts.

"Chief Metoxen, baseball coach, will have quite a bit of rebuilding to do in order to retain the league championship for another year, for he has lost through graduation his smooth-working keystone combination of Rust and Boran, third-baseman "Dutch" Arndt, center-fielder "Butch" Barthold, catcher Mentzer, the leading hitter of the 1935 season, and John Witter and Bill Smith, who both alternated between pitcher's box and the outfield. Paul Billett, brilliant twirler, and Danny Bartolet and Ray Patrizio remain to form a nucleus for the 1936 edition of the L. V. C. nine.

MEMBERSHIP in this organization is open to all those who have won a varsity letter in either of the three major sports — football, basketball, or baseball—, to commendable managers of the three teams, and to those who have shown outstanding ability in any minor sport.

The "L" Club was founded in 1922, suspended activity for a brief period two years ago, and has once again assumed a place as one of the leading campus organizations during the past year. The organization has been interested in bringing about a better feeling among the athletes of the college and has been instrumental in sponsoring an active social program.

Its calender for each year always includes several delightful dances and social affairs in the college gym. During the past football season, the "L" Club sponsored dances on each of the three Saturdays when the eleven engaged in grid competition on the home field. These social functions, with good music always supplied for dancing and a general air of gay friendliness prevailing, were tremendous successes and proved to be some of the most delightful of the informal dances held during the college year.

There is no doubt but that this organization exercises a real beneficial influence upon L. V. C. athletes and upon the student body as a whole, and it is to be sincerely hoped that it will maintain its extensive program throughout the coming years.

SEASON'S SUMMARY

TOPPING off their campaign with a 6-0 win over Tampa University in the first intersectional engagement in the history of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE, the Blue and White eleven turned in an impressive record on the gridiron during the 1935 season.

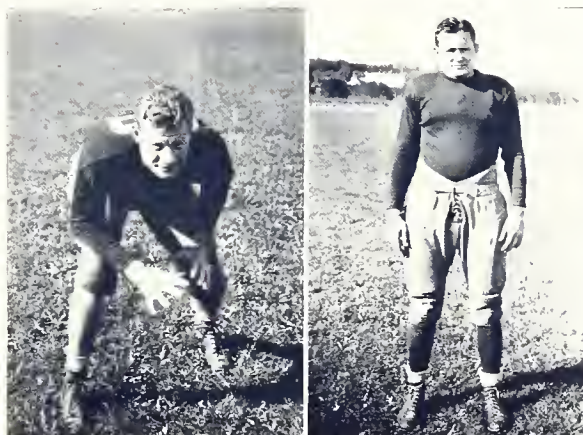

The Flying Dutchmen, under the tutelage of Head Coach "Jerry" Frock and Assistant Coaches "Chief" Metoxen and "Scoop" Feeser, emerged victorious in six of ten grid encounters. The record is made all the more impressive when consideration is given to the fact that three of the defeats of the Valleyites were administered by particularly strong teams. Penn State, with one of the best grid aggregations in the school's history, was forced to the very limit by L. V. C. before the Blue and White finally submitted by a 12-6 count. The powerful Fordham Rams registered a 15-0 win over Valley, but the New Yorkers discovered that the Flying Dutchmen were something more than a "breather" opponent. Albright's eleven, which suffered but one defeat all season, was another of the opponents to subdue the Valleyites, the Lions emerging victorious in a hard-fought game by a 10-0 score. The fourth team to defeat the Blue and White was Drexel, who turned the trick by a 12-0 score as the Valleyites made their poorest showing of the season.

The teams which bowed in defeat before the Blue and White's powerful attack were Kutztown Teachers, Muhlenberg, Pennsylvania Military College, St. Joseph's, the University of Delaware, and the University of Tampa. The P.M.C. and Tampa U. victories were especially gratifying to the followers of Lebanon Valley's football fortunes.

"Danny" Bartolet and Boyd Sponaugle, husky linemen, led the Valley gridders as co-captains. Their sterling play at a tackle and an end post won them the plaudits of their team-mates and opponents as well. Bartolet, 190-pound tackle, playing a scrappy, hard-charging, and vicious-tackling game, was a tower of strength in the Blue and White offensive and defensive attack, while Sponaugle, 186-pound wingman, capably handled his position and rendered valuable service in his last year as a member of the L. V. C. grid aggregation.

These two men will be lost to the team next season, but the rest of the squad will return to LEBANON VALLEY to carry the Blue and White on to greater glories during the 1936 season. Prospects are indeed exceedingly bright that next year's gridders may establish an even more enviable record than that established by the 1935 edition of the Flying Dutchmen.

to a Punt Return*

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE, 19; KUTZTOWN TEACHERS, 6

LEBANON VALLEY College's Blue and White eleven opened the 1935 season at Kutztown by defeating Kutztown State Teachers, 19 to 6, by outplaying their opponents during the final three periods after a 60-yard touchdown run had put the Teachers out in front in the opening session.

The inaugural contest was marked by the dedication of a new stadium at Kutztown, but the Flying Dutchmen somehow failed to enter fully into the spirit of the occasion and showed little mercy to the Teachers after they had registered their lone touchdown early in the game.

Immediately following the opening kickoff, Kutztown netted three successive first downs on running plays to advance to the Blue and White 23-yard line before the Flying Dutchmen managed to halt the Teachers' onslaught. The home team was not to be denied, however, and Dematteo, a diminutive speed merchant, returned one of Lutz's punts from his own 40-yard stripe sixty yards down the sideline to a touchdown as the Teachers assumed the lead.

The Flying Dutchmen took the pigskin on the following kickoff and remained on the offensive throughout the remainder of the opening half. L. V. C. secured a tie score midway in the second period when a forward pass, Kress to Fridinger, was good for six points. Running plays featuring Bill Rhoads and Ed Kress and interference on a Kress-thrown aerial intended for Raymie Frey placed the ball in scoring position on the Kutztown 15-yard line. Kress's pass to Fridinger was completed on the ten-yard line, with the fullback dashing the remaining distance to touchdownland and a deadlocked score. T. Rozman's kick for the extra point failed to break the tie.

Soon after the intermission a determined offensive netted L. V. C. another six-pointer and the lead. Straight football advanced the ball to the 35-yard line. Kress then heaved a forward to Frey, who was downed on the four-yard marker. The Flying Dutchmen were denied the lead on three successive plays, but Kress finally crossed the final stripe on a fourth-down line plunge. A line plunge by Rhoads was good for the extra point, placing LEBANON VALLEY ahead, 13 to 6.

Kress scored the third and last Blue and White six-pointer in the final period. A score earlier in this session was nullified by an off-side penalty against the Flying Dutchmen when Klipa had plunged into the end zone, only to have the infraction of the rules called against L. V. C. A determined line smashing attack finally netted the Valleyites their third score when Kress slanted off-tackle from the six-yard line and crossed the final stripe standing up. Tony Rozman's placement kick for the extra point was unsuccessful.

LEBANON VALLEY outscored Kutztown, eleven to nine, in first downs, but found the Teachers a tough aggregation when the play proceeded within the Kutztown 20-yard stripe. The Valley's opponents fought tooth and nail all the way and refused to concede the Blue and White the encounter without a struggle.

The starting lineup for L. V. C. included Sponaule, Bartolet, G. Davies, T. Rozman, Kniley, F. Rozman, and Lascari on the line and Tindall, Walmer, Lutz, and Fridinger in the backfield.

Snappy Blocking by the Blue and White Foes

PENN STATE, 12; LEBANON VALLEY 6

AN underdog LEBANON VALLEY eleven completely outplayed Penn State's Nittany Lions for fully fifty-two minutes of the State College opener, but during the closing eight minutes of play the Lions found themselves and rallied to a 12-6 win over the Valleyites.

A spectacular touchdown dash by "Tampa" Hance, speedy halfback, gave the Valleyites a six-point advantage early in the fourth period, and the LEBANON VALLEY gridders seemed to be well on their way to a victory, their first in nineteen games contested against the Nittany outfit, until the Staters finally rallied and Cooper registered two touchdowns to again force the Blue and White to bow in defeat.

The Flying Dutchmen completely dominated play throughout the first half. Lutz quick-kicked the Lions into a hole soon after the opening kickoff when the big half-back's boot sailed and bounded seventy yards to the State five-yard line, where Bartolet downed the pigskin. From this point on throughout the initial session, the Staters were continually on the defensive but with considerable difficulty managed to defend their goal against the VALLEY drives. The most serious scoring threat of the Dutchmen carried to the State six-yard line and fell short of the goal when a fourth-down forward was incomplete.

Penn State penetrated into L. V. C. territory for the first time midway in the third period but failed to threaten the VALLEY goal seriously. In the meantime, however, the Valleyites were in turn being held in check by the Lions, and no scoring opportunities presented themselves to the Dutchmen.

In the fourth period an exchange of punts gave LEBANON VALLEY possession of the oval on their own 24-yard line. Kress made two yards off tackle, and on the next play Ken Hance shook himself loose for a 74-yard touchdown jaunt. The shifty Tampan started off right tackle, cut to the left after passing the line of scrimmage and raced all the way into the end zone.

It was after the return kickoff that the heavily-favored Lions went into effective action against the tiring Valleyites and rallied to score a pair of touchdowns and snatch victory once again from the grasp of the Flying Dutchmen.

Cooper, State fullback, returned Kniley's kickoff to the State 40-yard line. A third-down pass, O'Hara to Smith, was completed for a substantial gain, the receiver finally being stopped on the VALLEY 13-yard line. Three line plays produced a State touchdown, Cooper carrying the ball across the last marker.

L. V. C. was unable to gain after receiving the kickoff and Lutz pointed out to the State 43. A Wear-to-Smith aerial was good for a first down in LEBANON VALLEY territory, on the 39-yard line. Wear picked up 24 yards around end, Knapp gained a yard, and a reverse play with Wear lugging the leather counted a first down on the Blue and White 5-yard marker. Cooper plunged over the goal line for the winning touchdown on a line play, bringing the score to the final figures, 12-6, favoring the Lions. State kicked off to VALLEY following the six-pointer, but a pass interception ended all chance of a Blue and White deadlock or victory.

LEBANON VALLEY's scrappy aggregation outscored the veteran State combination in the matter of first downs, with an 11 to 10 VALLEY advantage conveying some impression of the real strength of the attack of the Flying Dutchmen.

A Valleyite Gets His Man

LEBANON VALLEY, 19; MUHLENBERG, 6

LEBANON VALLEY'S only nocturnal tilt of the grid season resulted in a 19-6 win for the Blue and White over Muhlenberg's Mules under the arclights at Allentown.

A 75-yard scoring dash by John Tindall, fleet-footed quarterback of L. V. C., featured the offensive attack of the Flying Dutchmen as they completely outplayed the Muhlenberg eleven, thus avenging a 1934 defeat and assuming a ten to nine lead in the all-time record of Muhlenberg-LEBANON VALLEY gridiron engagements.

Tindall's six-point sprint opened the scoring for the evening and gave L. V. C. an advantage which was never relinquished. Standing on his own 25-yard line, the VALLEY safety man took a Muhlenberg punt early in the second period and raced 75 yards for a score behind beautifully-formed interference.

A second touchdown tally followed soon after the first and virtually clinched the fray for the Flying Dutchmen. Hance placed the ball in scoring position on the one-yard line with a 14-yard off-tackle smash and lugged the leather over the last marker two plays later on a line plunge. The flashy second-period play of the Valleyites earned them a 12-0 advantage at half-time.

The final Blue and White touchdown was registered in the last period, with Tindall again playing an important part in the scoring drive. The VALLEY back broke loose on a reverse play and galloped 29 yards to place the oval in scoring position on the Muhlenberg one-yard stripe. John Walmer scored the touchdown on a line smash on the next play. Tony Rozman scored the extra point after this six-pointer on a successful placement kick.

A fourth LEBANON VALLEY score seemed imminent when the final whistle concluded the play. The Flying Dutchmen were in possession of the leather on the Muhlenberg one-yard mark when the game ended and prevented further humiliation of the Mules.

The Muhlenbergers penetrated deep into Blue and White territory but once during the entire sixty minutes of play, and on that single occasion they succeeded in scoring their lone touchdown of the game. Two long forward passes, one from Farrel to Geschel for 40 yards and another from Farrel to Brown for 30 yards, placed the Mules in scoring position on the VALLEY 6-yard line. Another aerial, Farrel to Geschel, completed the touchdown march.

The Blue and White gridders, playing in their only night game of the season, held the upper hand throughout the tilt, which was played on a rain-drenched field. The Valleyites outscored their rivals, 13 to 6, in first downs, despite the fact that Coach "Jerry" Frock withdrew his regulars from action near the close of the initial half and never reinserted his full first-string lineup throughout the remainder of the fray.

The starting lineup included the following: Boyd Sponaugle and August Lascari, ends, Danny Bartolet and Frank Rozman, tackles, Gordon Davies and Jesse Kniley, guards, Art Heisch, center, Ed Kress, quarterback, Carl Lutz and Tony Rozman, halfbacks, and Pete Fridinger, fullback. Tindall, Walmer, and Hance saw considerable service as reserve backs as Frock used twenty-five gridmen in downing the Mules. Tindall was the outstanding star of the fray from an offensive standpoint, while the whole LEBANON VALLEY forward wall played brilliantly to keep the Mule attack well smothered.

The Dragons Smother Hance

DREXEL, 12; LEBANON VALLEY, 0

DREXEL overpowered the Flying Dutchmen by a 12-0 count in the first home game of the Blue and White season as the VALLEY gridders rallied vainly throughout the second half in a futile attempt to overcome a two-touchdown advantage earned by the Dragons in the first thirty minutes of play.

The Valleyites, heavily-favored to capture the tilt, failed utterly during the opening half and lacked the final scoring punch in the third and fourth sessions, when they completely outplayed their opponents but were unable to register a score.

Drexel played heads-up football all the way and made effective use of a deceptive aerial attack to obtain an advantage which they successfully guarded against the numerous second-half onslaughts of the Flying Dutchmen.

The Drexelites were not slow in demonstrating their proficiency in the forward-pass department of the grid game. After a pass interception had halted the only first-half drive of the Flying Dutchmen, the Dragons went right to work and registered their first score on a 56-yard sustained march. Fox started the Philadelphians on their way with a 25-yard run on an off-tackle play. A successful overhead heave from Knapp to Graf placed the oval on the 8-yard line, first down and goal to go. A line plunge and a five-yard penalty against the Blue and White advanced the oval to the one-yard stripe and another Knapp-to-Graf forward pass registered the touchdown after ten minutes of first-period action.

Drexel again dominated the play in the second period and scored the second touchdown after a 34-yard march, the Dragon aerial game again being directly responsible for the score. A 21-yard heave from Fox to Curry placed the ball on the L. V. C. 13-yard line and another toss, this time from Fox to Knapp, was good for the touchdown.

After the intermission the VALLEY eleven showed a marked improvement and gained 204 yards on running and passing plays to outscore the Dragons, 12 to 1, in first downs. Even with this tremendous advantage, however, the Blue and White gridders were unable to lessen the two-touchdown margin of their scrappy opponents and were held scoreless by a fine display of Drexel defensive power.

On three distinct occasions LEBANON VALLEY threatened to cross Drexel's goal, but each time the alert Dragons managed to break up the Blue and White drive. A 38-yard march of the Flying Dutchmen early in the fourth quarter carried deep into Drexel territory, but a pass interception halted the advance on the 4-yard line. A 29-yard march was stopped a little later in the game when the Drexel forward wall dropped Hance for a 10-yard loss before he was able to spot a receiver on an attempted forward-pass play.

However, the most able attack of the Valleyites was reserved for the waning moments of the game. Taking possession of the oval on their own 4-yard line following a beautiful coffin-corner kick by Drexel, the Flying Dutchmen engineered a series of daring forward pass plays that combined with a powerful running attack to advance the ball 84 yards before a Drexel interception ended the drive and robbed the Valleyites of their last scoring chance.

The running, passing, and punting of Carl Lutz, rangy halfback, and the capable performance of the whole Blue and White line featured VALLEY's attack, while the inspired defensive play of the Drexelites at crucial moments and the deceptive passing attack uncovered during the first half featured the winning attack of the Philadelphians.

A Close Up of Action in the Forward Wall

FORDHAM, 15; LEBANON VALLEY, 0

COMING back strong after their defeat at the hands of Drexel, LEBANON VALLEY's gridders gave the powerful Fordham Rams quite a workout before bowing in defeat by a 15-0 margin.

The Flying Dutchmen outplayed the Fordham second-stringers, yielded very little ground to the first-stringers, and came back in the closing minutes of play to astound the Rams and 10,000 spectators at New York's Polo Grounds by making the longest sustained march of the day to seriously threaten the Fordham goal.

After halting a Fordham advance on their own one-yard line late in the game the Valleyites made their sensational sustained drive, Lutz, standing in the end zone, tossed a pass to Walmer, who slipped and fell on the VALLEY 21-yard line. A lateral from Kress to Hance gained eight yards, and Hance hit the center of the line for a first down. Lutz tossed another forward to Hance for a gain of 28 yards. Kress lost a yard on a running play but a lateral from Lutz to Kress was good for six yards. The Lutz-Hance combination connected on another forward pass, this time for an 18-yard gain.

Kress was held for no gain, but Hance tore through the weak side of the line for a first down on the Fordham five-yard line. Three running plays advanced the ball another yard and a fourth-down pass was intercepted by Fordham to end the drive, which covered fully 95 yards of territory. Fordham kicked out of danger and another L. V. C. drive carried to the Ram 22-yard line, where Fordham held for downs as the game came to a close.

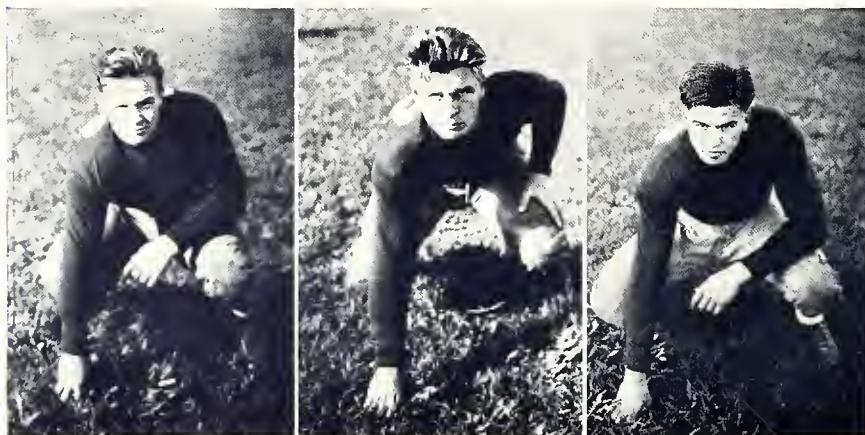

This fine last-period advance of the Blue and White eleven was the high-spot of the game, but failed to overcome the 15-point advantage built up by the Rams during the earlier action.

The Rams started a second-string outfit which could make no headway against the Flying Dutchmen throughout the opening period, and late in that period the first-string lineup was injected into the fray. This Ram outfit took the ball on their own 42-yard line and advanced to the L. V. C. 4-yard line as the first period ended. When the second session got under way, the Valleyites braced and held for downs in a great goal-line stand. Kress punted out to the 42-yard line, but Maniaci got loose and returned the punt to the 24. Again L. V. C. held, however, with the Flying Dutchmen gaining possession of the oval on their own 18-yard stripe.

Still another Ram advance was stopped several minutes later when Kress intercepted a Ram aerial. Kress got off a poor punt at this point, and a 28-yard gain by Maniaci and a completed forward pass placed the ball on the VALLEY 9-yard line. Maniaci battled his way to the 4, and on fourth down Mulrey finally tabbed a touchdown on a delayed buck at the center of the line. Palau booted the extra point from placement.

Fordham added a second touchdown near the end of the half when Maniaci hurdled the line from the two-yard stripe to score after a pair of long gains on a lateral and a forward pass play had placed the Rams in scoring position. The Rams brought their total to fifteen points in the third period after one of Palau's punts was downed on the one-yard line. Kress recovered his own fumble in the end zone and was tackled for a Fordham safety to end the scoring for the day.

Fordham registered a total of 20 first downs against the Valleyites but the Blue and White defense was particularly effective when the Rams proceeded within the VALLEY 20-yard stripe. The Flying Dutchmen counted nine first downs in their own behalf as they made an impressive showing against their highly-regarded opponents.

LEBANON VALLEY, 7; PENNSYLVANIA MILITARY COLLEGE, 0

TO the total satisfaction of a large Homecoming Day crowd, LEBANON VALLEY'S gridmen scored a brilliant 7-0 victory over the veteran P. M. C. eleven in the second home game of the season.

The Flying Dutchmen registered a second-quarter touchdown after a 63-yard sustained drive and then contented themselves with an alert defensive game which held the Cadets scoreless and protected the Blue and White one-touch-down margin throughout the second half.

A speedy, twisting runback by John Tindall of a P. M. C. punt set the stage for the touchdown-registering advance. The runback covered 22 yards from the L. V. C. 15-yard line to the 37, from which point the drive set sail.

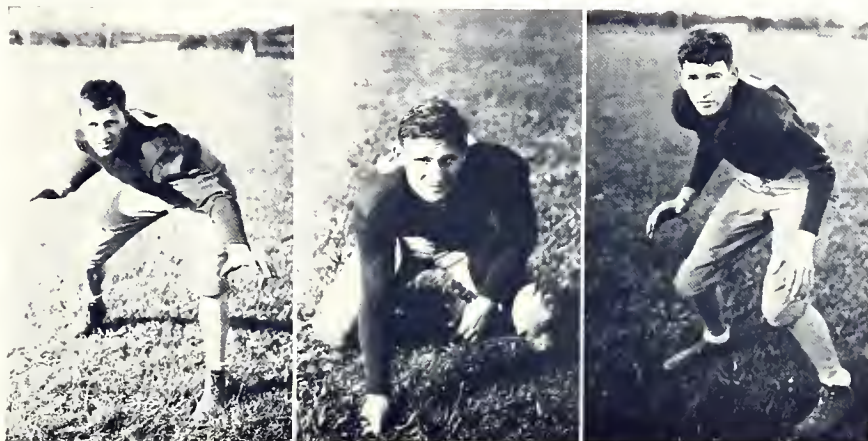

A forward pass, Kress to Tindall, was good for nine yards, Kress made three yards and a first down on the L. V. C. 49-yard marker on an off-tackle slant. A running play netted but two yards, and L. V. C. went into the air again. Fridinger taking Kress' pass on the P. M. C. 30-yard line for a 21-yard gain. Another aerial toss, this time with Jonah Davies heaving and Ed Kress receiving, placed the oval on the Cadets 3-yard line. On the next play a bad pass from center bounced past Kress and the L. V. C. halfback seemed hopelessly smothered when he retrieved the oval on the 20-yard line. However, he somehow managed to propel an accurate forward pass to Boyd Sponaugle standing in the clear in the end zone, and the VALLEY co-captain snared the pigskin for six points. Kniley's placement kick for the extra point sailed squarely between the uprights to put L. V. C. out in front by seven counters.

Only two other scoring opportunities presented themselves to the Flying Dutchmen during the entire sixty minutes of play. In the first period, LEBANON VALLEY threatened the Cadet goal when an advance carried to the opponents' ten-yard line. A pair of passes figured prominently in the threatening drive, with a 36-yard Kress-to-Tindall aerial and a 17-yard Kress-to-Brown forward placing the ball on the Cadet 15-yard line. Two running plays and a lateral pass play gained five yards, but a fourth-down forward was incomplete to conclude the advance.

Late in the final period an unsuccessful placement attempt for a field goal by Jesse Kniley, LEBANON VALLEY guard, failed to hit the mark and brought an end to the third scoring opportunity of the Valleyites. Kniley's recovery of a Cadet fumble had given the Flying Dutchmen possession of the oval in P. M. C. territory to give the guard his chance at a field goal.

The Penn Military gridders had but one scoring opportunity all afternoon, and on that occasion their offensive drive was utterly impotent. A 24-yard punt runback by Elko carried the ball to the LEBANON VALLEY 25-yard line early in the second half. On the first play from scrimmage, Malinski fumbled but recovered for a five yard loss. A forward from Elko to Pollock was good for but five yards, McCarthy was held for no gain on a line play, and an incomplete forward pass on fourth down brought a harmless finish to the Cadet opportunity.

During the entire game P. M. C. scored but four first downs, only one of which was chalked up in L. V. C. territory, and that one merely on the L. V. C. 46-yard line. LEBANON VALLEY scored eight first downs, six of them during their powerful first-half drive. The Cadets displayed a determined defense against the L. V. C. running plays but were baffled by the smartly-executed pass plays of the Flying Dutchmen. During the first half the Valleyites completed no less than seven out of nine forwards attempted, for a total gain of 131 yards. The Blue and White played smart football throughout and outplayed their Cadet rivals to register a well-deserved victory.

A Line Plunge

LEBANON VALLEY, 12; ST. JOSEPH'S, 6

ST. JOSEPH'S HAWKS fell prey to a devastating second-half attack of the Flying Dutchmen at Philadelphia on November 9 as the Blue and White eleven registered its fourth win of the season by a score of 12 to 6.

Harry Heimenz, flashy St. Joe halfback, ran back the opening kickoff 92 yards to a touchdown, but from that point on LEBANON VALLEY held the upper hand, although the winning touchdown was the result of a spectacular run by Ed Kress rather than the result of straight, hard football.

The L. V. C. quarterback dashed 55 yards after grabbing a St. Joe aerial that caromed off the arms of the intended receiver and scored the winning points after a speedy jaunt.

This touchdown was scored late in the third period after LEBANON VALLEY's first touchdown had deadlocked the count earlier in the period. Another long run, one of 39 yards by Bill Rhoades, reserve VALLEY back, was largely responsible for the initial L. V. C. six-pointer. Rhoades' gallop placed the oval on the two-yard stripe and on the first play from that point the same back plunged over the line into the end zone to knot the count at 6-6.

Aside from the three thrilling runs—those of Heimenz, Rhoades, and Kress—the game was not particularly exciting, with the defensive strength of each team pretty well over-balancing the offensive strength of the other.

Neither team was able to set a sustained drive in motion, and the battle resolved itself largely into a punting duel, with neither team being able to take advantage of the few breaks of the game that offered further scoring opportunities to the contestants.

Heimenz runback of the opening kickoff was the longest run recorded in the history of Finnesey Field, the St. Joe home grounds. The Hawk halfback was delayed at the start of his run in picking up the bounding pigskin, but he finally set sail from the 8-yard marker and sped through the entire LEBANON VALLEY outfit, with the aid of some excellently-formed interference on the part of his mates.

The run provided the big thrill of the contest, but the later efforts of Rhoades and Kress put to naught the flashy scoring jaunt of the fleet Hawk back.

St. Joseph's had pretty much the better of the going during the first half, but after the intermission the Flying Dutchmen outplayed their opponents in every department of the game to annex a well-deserved triumph. The Valley-ites were at their best during the third period, when they scored both of their touchdowns and had much the better of the argument.

A 9-6 margin in first downs was sported by the Flying Dutchmen, and the small number of first downs is truly indicative of the fact that the offenses of both teams were held pretty well in check by the capable defenses of the other.

At this stage of the season, the starting lineup employed by Coach "Jerry" Frock included the co-captains, Bartolet and Sponaule, at the left tackle and left end positions, Gordon Davies at left guard, Harold Kroske at center, Jesse Kniley at right guard, Frank Poloniak at right tackle, Robert Brown at right end, Ed Kress at quarterback, Ross Sheesley and Jonah Davies at the halfback posts, and Pete Fridinger at fullback. Tindall, Hance, Rhoades, and Walmer saw plenty of service as reserve backs.

A Lion Smothered

ALBRIGHT, 10; LEBANON VALLEY, 0

THOSE traditional rivals of L. V. C., the Albright Lions, who suffered but one defeat throughout the grid season, provided the opposition for the Blue and White in the annual Dad's Day game on the home soil and proved to be too much for the Flying Dutchmen, the Red and White gridders registering a 10-0 decision in a hard-fought and well-played contest.

Sophomore Dick Riffle, the Albright triple-threat ace was a one-man wrecking crew for the Lion outfit and proved the undoing of the Valleyites. The spearhead of the Red and White offensive, Riffle registered the only touchdown of the game early in the first period and never failed to gain when he lugged the leather. Claude Felty, a nice-blocking and line-smashing fullback, Woodrow Powell, a speedy halfback, and Tony Troisi, a shifty safety man, materially aided Riffle in supporting the Lion cause against the Flying Dutchmen.

Albright's ten counters were scored on a first-period touchdown and extra point and a field goal registered on the first play in the fourth quarter. Another placement kick attempt for a three-pointer in the first period failed by the narrowest of margins when the pigskin bounced harmlessly away after striking the horizontal bar of the uprights.

Early in the game a 28-yard runback by Powell of a Kress punt gave the Lions possession of the oval on the L. V. C. 29-yard line. To add to the woes of the Flying Dutchmen, a fifteen-yard penalty called against the Blue and White placed the Red and White definitely in a scoring position. Three plays sufficed to carry the Lions into touchdownland. A line plunge was good for two yards, and two lateral pass plays covered the remaining distance. Riffle going over the final stripe after taking a toss from Troisi. Ross booted the extra point from placement to give the Lions a 7-0 advantage.

An exchange of punts following the next kickoff found the Lions in possession of the pigskin on their own 47-yard line. Two running plays netted four yards and a forward from Felty to Powell placed the ball on the Blue and White 20-yard stripe. A 15-yard penalty set the Lions back to the 35 and three plays netted but seven yards, placing the ball on the 28. Captain Ross, Albright Wingman, stepped back to the 35-yard marker for a placement kick field goal attempt, the ball striking the upright and falling away harmlessly.

L. V. C. took possession of the ball and was once again forced to punt, Albright coming right back to threaten the Blue and White goal, the Flying Dutchmen finally holding for downs within their own ten-yard line. The Valleyites came back with an attack of their own which registered two straight first downs before Felty intercepted a pass to end the drive. Neither team could get an advance in motion for the remainder of the half so the Lions trotted off the field with a 7-0 advantage at the intermission.

LEBANON VALLEY made its most determined bid for a score early in the third period. Tindall pulled in an Albright punt on his own 37-yard line and picked his way to the Albright 45 before he was finally downed. Tindall then squirmed through a hole in the line for a 12-yard gain. An aerial heave by Kress found its mark, and the receiver, Tindall, weaved his way to the Albright 14-yard line before he was brought down. Unfortunately, the flashy quarterback fumbled the ball when he was tackled and an alert Lion defender recovered to end the VALLEY advance.

At the close of the third period, a fifty-yard sustained drive by the Lions penetrated to the L. V. C. 24-yard line, where the VALLEY line held for three successive downs as the period ended. On the first play of the last quarter John Muller, a substitute back, booted the ball cleanly over the bar for a perfect placement field goal to end the scoring for the day; and clinch the decision for the gallant Albright eleven.

A Small Gain Registered Through the Cadet Line

LEBANON VALLEY, 18; U. OF DELAWARE, 0

LEBANON VALLEY flashed a powerful attack against the University of Delaware eleven in the last game of the regular season as the Flying Dutchmen registered their fifth win by the overwhelming score of 18 to 0.

Scoring an even dozen tallies before the first period was ten minutes old, the Valleyites were never in danger of being defeated in the grid battle. Johnny Tindall crossed the Delaware goal line twice and Pete Fridinger registered a third touchdown as the Blue and White romped to a decisive triumph.

Delaware put on display a fair running and passing attack, but fumbles by the Mud Hen ball-carriers prevented them from seriously threatening to score against the Flying Dutchmen. Alert VALLEY defenders capitalized on all the opportunities which were offered them by the Delawarians, with fumble recoveries not only serving to halt the advances of the opponents but also giving the Valleyites several scoring chances.

LEBANON VALLEY's first score came early in the show when L. Carey fumbled one of Kress' punts as he was tackled by Kniley and Kroske recovered the oval for the Blue and White on the Delaware 45-yard line. On the first play Kress tossed a forward pass to Tindall who made his way to the 20-yard stripe. Tindall and Kress alternated at carrying the ball to give L. V. C. a first down on the 3-yard line. Tindall slid off tackle for the score, with Kniley's placement attempt for the extra point being blocked.

Less than two minutes later the Blue and White succeeded in scoring a second six-pointer. Gordon Davies intercepted a Mud Hen forward pass on the Delaware 35-yard line and returned it to the 30, where he lateraled to Bartolet, who was downed on the 20. On a fake end run Ed Kress faded back and hurled an acrial to Fridinger on the 10-yard stripe, with the VALLEY fullback dashing the remaining distance to a score. Kniley's attempted conversion went wide of the uprights.

Another offensive drive several minutes later ended unsuccessfully when Tony Rozman's attempt at a field goal from placement was no good. The remainder of the first and second periods were devoid of stirring action as neither team was able to threaten the other's goal.

Delaware made several determined attempts to score in the third frame, but the Flying Dutchmen were particularly stubborn whenever the Mud Hens proceeded within their 20-yard line, and several fumbles put abrupt conclusions to the Delaware advances.

A 55-yard run by Tindall accounted for LEBANON VALLEY's final points in the last period. With the Flying Dutchmen in possession of the pigskin on their own 45-yard stripe, Tindall tore through the weak side of the line on a reverse play, with some neat interference and some nifty side-stepping by the VALLEY quarterback sufficing to push the oval over the final stripe. The third placement attempt for the extra point was unsuccessful, with Tony Rozman this time on the booting end of the attempted conversion.

Bartolet and Sponaule, the only two seniors on the squad, earned more laurels by their fine play in the final game of the regular season, their offensive and defensive play leading the way as the LEBANON VALLEY forward wall put on one of its best exhibitions of the year. Kniley, Davies, Poloniak, and Kroske also showed up well in the front lines. Kress, Tindall, Walmer, T. Rozman, and Fridinger starred in the backfield.

The three touchdowns scored against the Delawarians brought the total of LEBANON VALLEY's scoring to 81 points for the season as against 67 points scored by the forces of the nine opponents. Thirteen touchdowns and three extra points accounted for the L. V. C. total, while ten touchdowns, one field goal, one safety, and two extra points accounted for the opponents' total.

A Lofty Punt Booted Against Albright

LEBANON VALLEY, 6; U. OF TAMPA, 0

IN THE first intersectional game in the athletic history of L. V. C. the Flying Dutchmen defeated gridders representing the University of Tampa, 6 to 0, in a Christmas Day game played in the sunny Florida clime under the sponsorship of the Tampa Junior League for the benefit of the Tubercular Home for Children, the only institution of its kind in the southern state.

Reorganizing his gridders several weeks after the squad had disbanded following the season's final against Delaware, Coach "Jerry" Frock was handicapped in his early workouts by the snow and cold weather prevailing at Annville. However, the Valleyites threw off the effects of their long layoff and played good football to surprise the Tampans. The southern team had enjoyed a successful season, their most notable achievement being a victory over Howard University's gridders, who deadlocked the Alabama University eleven in an early-season encounter.

Two full teams of gridders made the one-week trip south and reached top form despite the long journey and the change in climate. Tampa headquarters were established at the Tampa Terrace Hotel and several preliminary workouts enabled the Valleyites to adjust themselves to the warm weather.

The only touchdown of the Christmas Day charity game was scored by the Blue and White during the first ten minutes of play when Kress went over the final stripe as the culmination of a 75-yard march by the Flying Dutchmen.

L. V. C. launched its touchdown drive after an exchange of punts in the early minutes of play, when the Valleyites were in possession of the oval on their own 25-yard line. Kress started the drive in motion by slashing through the line for ten yards and a first down. A pair of forward passes, one from Kress to Tindall and another from Kress to Fridinger played important parts in the VALLEY attack. The first of these was good for 21 yards and the second was good for five yards and a Blue and White first down on Tampa's 21-yard line after L. V. C. had been temporarily halted by the Spartan defenses.

Tindall then broke off right tackle for eleven yards and Kress registered the game-winning touchdown two plays later. Kniley's placement kick for the extra point was wide.

The remainder of the game produced nothing spectacular in the way of sustained drives, with neither team able to gain much ground, either on running or passing plays. The tackling and defensive play were of a high calibre, as evidenced by the fact that but fifteen first downs were registered throughout the contest, nine of these being credited to LEBANON VALLEY and six to the Tampans.

Rudy Rodriguez, the Floridan's ball-carrying ace, slipped away for a 22-yard jaunt during the second half of play, but the run came while the Spartans were in possession of the oval deep in their own territory and the LEBANON VALLEY goal was not seriously threatened by the diminutive Spartan's dash.

On but two occasions did the Tampa gridders threaten to register a six-pointer, and on neither occasion did the Flying Dutchmen experience serious difficulty in bringing the Spartan advance to a halt. On the one occasion a Tampa fumble was recovered by a Blue and White defender, while the Valleyites held for four downs on the other occasion.

The Flying Dutchmen gained 142 yards from rushing against 118 for Tampa and completed three out of ten passes to none out of six for the Tampans as the Valleyites walked off with the laurels in their first intersectional battle.

DURING the 1935-1936 season the Blue and White quintet, victorious in only three of its sixteen court engagements, gave one of the poorest exhibitions in the history of the cage sport at LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE. "Chief" Metoxen's courtsters won but two games in league competition and completed the season in a deadlock with Muhlenberg for the last place in the Eastern Pennsylvania Inter-collegiate League standing.

The one bright spot in the otherwise dismal campaign was the exhibition of speed and accurate shooting put on by Paul Billett, L. V. C. forward, whose high-scoring performance copped for him the high individual honors in the league. Billett's 121 points in twelve league contests represented a lead of four points over his nearest rival in the scoring department of the game. Aungst, LEBANON VALLEY center, ranked eighth in the individual scoring with 85 points.

Only two members of the squad, Captain Ray Patrizio, and Charles "Danny" Bartolet, will be lost through graduation, leaving seven members of the varsity squad to form a nucleus for next year's team. Included in the seven hold-overs are the five men who formed the starting lineup in the closing games of the season. Paul and Ralph Billett, forwards; Clarence Aungst, center; Harold Kroske and John Spig, guards, and Clair Snell and Art Heisch, reserves, will be back again next year.

COACH EMERSON "CHIEF" METOXEN

URSINUS, 39; LEBANON VALLEY, 22

In the league opener at Collegeville the L. V. C. dropped a 39-22 verdict to the Ursinus Bears when the Blue and White failed miserably on their shots.

The Bears galloped into a 21-12 lead at half-time and were never in danger throughout the contest. The Flying Dutchmen showed distinct ability at working the ball down the court and maneuvering a man into position for an open shot, but a very small percentage of the stabs at the basket hit the mark and the Valleyites dropped the curtain-raiser.

FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL, 54; LEBANON VALLEY, 39

The first home game of the season resulted in the second league reverse for the Valleyites, who were defeated by F. & M., ultimate winners of the league crown, by a 54-39 margin.

The Flying Dutchmen snared a 10-5 lead in the opening minutes of play, slumped badly while the Diplomats found themselves and ran up a 17-10 lead, and could never quite close the gap between themselves and their fast-travelling opponents. Twice during the second half the L. V. C. five spurted and came within striking distance of the F. & M. courtsters, but each time the Diplomats retaliated with a scoring spurt on their own account.

GETTYSBURG, 49; LEBANON VALLEY, 27

Gettysburg's defending champions proved too much for L. V. C. in the third league game of the season, the Bullets landing a 49-27 victory over the Blue and White on the Gettysburgers' home court.

LEBANON VALLEY was outclassed from beginning to end in this contest, with the fast passing and accurate shooting of the Bullets holding them completely at bay. Fish, high-scoring forward, led the victors with six field and three foul goals for a total of fifteen points.

GETTYSBURG, 38; LEBANON VALLEY, 31

LEBANON VALLEY gave the Bullets a real battle in their second meeting, when the G-burgers were forced to the limit to land a 38-31 win over the Flying Dutchmen in a game played on the Lebanon High School court.

Gettysburg enjoyed a 20-15 lead at half time but the Blue and White combination came back strong after the intermission to annex the lead at 28-25 with eleven minutes to go. "Moony" Morris, flashy guard of the Bullet outfit, featured in a comeback rally of the G-burgers which swept them into the lead once again and gave them a hard-earned win over the Blue and White.

LEBANON VALLEY, 40; URSINUS, 31

The initial win of the league court schedule was scored by the Valleyites at the expense of the Ursinus Bears in the third home game of the season. L. V. C. snared a one-point lead at half-time, surrendered that margin of vantage as the second half got under way, and then rallied midway in the final canto to win the game by a comfortable nine-point margin, 40 to 31.

Ralph Billett and Ray Patrizio were injected into the fray midway in the second half when Ursinus was enjoying a three point lead, and these lads provided the necessary spark and dash which sent the Valleyites off on a scoring spree which quickly erased the Bear advantage and sent the Blue and White total soaring.

MUHLENBERG, 35; LEBANON VALLEY, 33

A real last-ditch rally by Muhlenberg registered enough points to enable the Mules to nose out the Flying Dutchmen, 35-33, and the Blue and White quintet suffered defeat for the fifth time in league competition.

With four minutes to play, the Metoxenmen enjoyed a lead at 33-25, but a ten-point rally by the Muhlenbergers proved just potent enough to down the Valleyites. Included in this late scoring performance were four dizzy heaves from mid-floor that registered valuable counters for the Mules.

ALBRIGHT, 39; LEBANON VALLEY, 29

Those traditional foes of the Flying Dutchmen, the Albright Lions, took the first court engagement between the two teams during the 1936 season by a 39-29 count in a game played at Reading.

L. V. C. trailed, 23-11, at half-time, and although the Valleyites outplayed their foes during the second half, they could not overcome the tremendous advantage built up by the Lions during the first twenty minutes. Becker was top scorer for the Red and White with nine points, with Slingerland, Oslislo, Woods, and Riffle close at his heels.

DREXEL, 44; LEBANON VALLEY, 35

On February 15, Drexel's Dragons came from behind during the second half to score a 44-35 win over the Flying Dutchmen, after the Blue and White had sported a 19-17 edge at intermission.

Raynes, forward, and Donaldson, guard, featured in the comeback performance of the Philadelphians, the former tallying an even dozen points while the latter accounted for eleven.

However, Clarence Aungst, the L. V. C. pivot man, was the real star of the contest. Aungst gave his best exhibition of the year as he tallied fifteen points, most of them on under-the-basket follow-up shots, which kept the Blue and White in the running throughout the contest.

FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL, 47; LEBANON VALLEY, 32

Snyder, Diplomat forward, staged a one-man show in the second meeting of the year between F. & M. and L. V. C., and the Blue and White was submerged by a 47-32 count for its ninth league setback.

The flashy F. & M. forward counted nine field goals and three fouls for twenty-one points in leading his team to an easy victory over the Flying Dutchmen. The Diplomats led all the way, as the VALLEY defense was unable to stop the high-scoring foes, who racked up no less than twenty field goals. Ralph Billett turned in the high-scoring performance for the Valleyites with six field goals and one free throw for thirteen counters.

DREXEL, 30; LEBANON VALLEY, 25

On February 21, for the second time during the 1936 season, a Drexel rally overcame the L. V. C. courtsters in a game played at Philadelphia.

The Blue and White dribblers stepped out in the opening half to snare a 16-12 lead at half-time. They maintained the lead until the final five minutes of play, when Donaldson and Raynes counted some valuable two-pointers to land the decision for the Dragons. Paul Billett and Clarence Aungst played spectacular ball for L. V. C. and kept the Blue and White out in front during most of the game with their timely scoring.

LEBANON VALLEY, 49; MUHLENBERG, 36

Paul Billett paced the Flying Dutchmen in their most brilliant exhibition of the season as the Blue and White quintet registered its second triumph at the expense of Muhlenberg in a rough tilt played at Lebanon. Final score: L. V. C., 49, Mules, 36.

Billett counted seven times from the field and six times from the fifteen-foot mark to lead Metoxen's charges. Ralph Billett and Clarence Aungst contributed ten points apiece in the winning attack of the Valleyites. The whole LEBANON VALLEY outfit displayed the best ball of the season, the Mules being completely outplayed in every department of the game by their Blue and White opponents. Grossman led the futile Muhlenberg attack with a dozen points.

ALBRIGHT, 46; LEBANON VALLEY, 40

The final game of the season saw Albright's Lions turn in a 46-40 win over the LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE quintet in a hard-fought game played on the Lebanon High School court.

Tony Troisi, speedy midget forward, and Ike Slingerland, substitute forward, were outstanding in a fast second-half attack that netted the Lions the game. "Chief" Metoxen's minions started the game in fine style by running up a 12-2 advantage in the opening minutes and the Valleyites were still in front, 19-18, at half time. Albright overtook the Flying Dutchmen early in the second half, but some timely scoring by the Billett brothers, Aungst, Kroske, and Snell kept the issue in doubt until Troisi and Slingerland stepped out in the closing minutes to register the game-winning tallies.

NON-LEAGUE COMPETITION

Four games were played during the 1935-1936 season with non-league opponents, the Blue and White quintet being victorious in but one contest while dropping three.

West Chester State Teachers trounced the Valleyites in the season's opener by a 33-12 count. Rogo, West Chester speed merchant, led the Teachers' attack with an even dozen points scored on six field goals. Paul Billett was the only wearer of the Blue and White who could dent the nets consistently, the Valley forward accounting for nine points.

Philadelphia College of Pharmacy fell prey to a smooth-working L. V. C. outfit on December 18, when the Flying Dutchmen scored their first triumph of the season by a 41-22 score. Aungst, Ralph Billett, and Clair Snell featured the Blue and White attack on the Druggists.

Bucknell University's dribblers twice defeated the LEBANON VALLEY quintet during the past season. In the game at Lewisburg January 21, Folz and Summers starred as the Bisons defeated the Blue and White, 43 to 33. In a game at Harrisburg on February 24, the Valleyites again bowed to the Bucknellians, this time by a 50-34 count. Sager, Folz, and Filer leading the Bison attack.

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE'S varsity tennis team split even in ten matches during the 1935 season, with five matches recorded in the win column and an equal number recorded in the loss column.

Under the able tutelage of Coach E. H. Stevenson, the team, composed of Homer Donmoyer, Captain and Manager "Hib" Nye, Richard Walborn, Richard Ax, "Wib" Shroyer, and Norman Lazin, defeated Elizabethtown, Juniata, F. & M., Moravian, and St. Joseph's and was in turn defeated by Dickinson, Bucknell, Ursinus, Muhlenberg, and Albright.

The Blue and White racquet-wielders won handily from Elizabethtown College in the opening contest on the home courts, with the E-town star, Newman, being largely responsible for both the defeats chalked against L. V. C. in the seven-match contest.

The second match, played at Carlisle, resulted in defeat for the Blue and White representatives when Dickinson eked out a 5-4 win by annexing four of the singles and one of the doubles encounters.

L. V. C. returned to winning form in the next two matches by swamping Juniata's Indians, 7-0, and defeating F. & M., 4-3, in a stirring match which was decided in the last doubles sortie.

Bucknell proved too strong for L. V. C. at Lewisburg, but Moravian's racqueteers could do little against the Valleyites and went down in defeat by an 8-1 count.

On a two-day trip, the Blue and White netmen divided a pair of matches, whitewashing St. Joe at Philadelphia and dropping a 4-3 decision to Ursinus at Collegeville. LEBANON VALLEY completed the season by bowing to Muhlenberg's Mules and Albright's Lions in matches on the home courts.

Scheduled matches with Catawba and the Alumni had to be cancelled because of rainy weather. Four other matches could not be played when first scheduled but were re-arranged for later dates by Manager Nye.

Homer Donmoyer, playing in the number one spot, proved to be the steadiest man on the L. V. C. court team when he registered seven wins in ten matches. Nye and Walborn, occupying the next two spots in the lineup, each won four out of ten matches. Ax and Shroyer, fourth and fifth men, landed seven out of ten, and Lazin won one of three matches played. The Donmoyer-Nye duo won five of eight matches and the Walborn-Ax combination landed six out of eight as the leading doubles pairings of the LEBANON VALLEY team.

Autumn Tournaments

TENNIS hit a new autumn high at L. V. C. during 1935. The first annual Fall net tournaments for men and women drew a large number of entrants and were the object of a great deal of campus attention and interest.

These tournaments, open to students of all classes, resulted in the crowning of Homer Donmoyer as men's champion and Ernestine Jagnesak as women's champion.

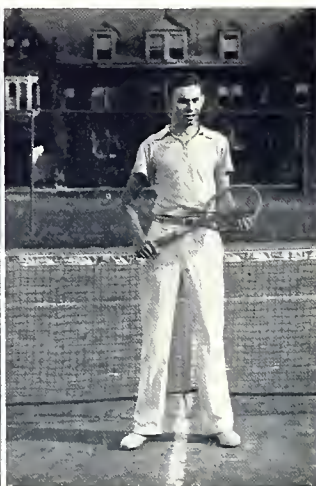

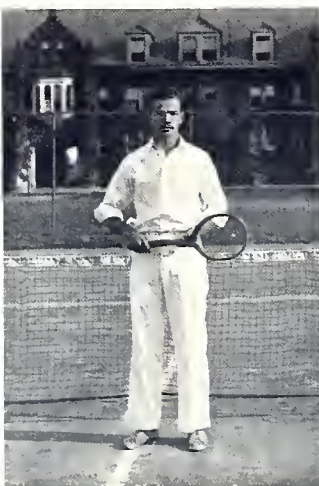

Donmoyer, seeded first in the tourney and a top-heavy favorite to land the crown, defeated Phil DeHuff, fourth-seeded, in a well-played final match, the scores being 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, and 6-0 in favor of the No. 1 man of the L. V. C. tennis team.

Several upsets were registered in the tournament as Ax and Shroyer, tennis team veterans seeded second and third, both fell by the wayside before the finals. Ax was defeated by DeHuff in a closely-contested semi-final match by a 6-2, 13-11 count. Shroyer was defeated by Clair Snell in the second round of play, the latter in turn being defeated by Donmoyer in the semi-finals. Another tennis team player, Norman Lazin, was defeated in the first round by Tallman, an unseeded player.

In the women's competition Jagnesak, third-seeded, and Ruth Buck furnished the biggest surprises. The former, named champion, defeated the first-seeded favorite, Velma Gingrich, in the semi-final round, while Buck, overlooked entirely in the seedings, defeated Carolyn Roberts and Carolyn Kohler, seeded second and fourth, to proceed to the finals. The scores in the women's finals favored Jagnesak over Buck, 9-7 and 6-1.

Saturday, December 7	LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE 2; SUSQUEHANNA 1

THE Blue and White girls' varsity hockey team played but three intercollegiate contests during the past year, winning two games from the Susquehanna girls and losing one game to the Hockey Club of Harrisburg.

The closely contested battle with the Harrisburgers opened the season on November 2, with the visitors emerging victorious by a score of two goals to one. Taggart and Fasnacht tallied counters for the Harrisburg lassies in the first half and the Blue and White's foes displayed a stubborn defense throughout the second session and succeeded in holding the L. V. C. girls to a single goal, registered by Wanda Price.

LEBANON VALLEY'S gals turned in a win in their second start, against the Susquehanna girls on November 21, when they displayed a smooth-working passing attack to conquer the Selinsgrove hockeyites, 5 to 2.

L. V. C. counted three times during the fast-played first half and held the Susquehannans to one goal. In the final session the Valleyites increased their advantage by outscoring their foes two to one. Velma Gingrich and Eleanor Lynch each accounted for two scores to feature the Blue and White attack, with Wanda Price registering the other counter. The gals representing L. V. C. were entirely too speedy in their passing and shooting for their foes and scored their first win handily.

The final game of the season found the Valley girls again victorious over their Susquehanna rivals, this time a score of 2 to 1. Once again the L. V. C. girls proved too powerful for the Selinsgrovers, although they were held to a 1-1 deadlock at half time. During the second half the Valleyites slipped a second counter past the opposing goalie, the tally providing the margin of victory for the Blue and White. Price counted both L. V. C. goals, while Ernestine Jagnesak starred with a brilliant display of defensive play.

Included in the intercollegiate squad were Koppenhaver, Price, Gingrich, Lynch, Morris, Smith, Baney, Heminway, March, Jagnesak, Orth, Bartlett, Overly, Graby, Houck, Risser, Kohler, Kirkpatrick, Ellenberger, and Holbrook.

SEASON'S SUMMARY

THE L. V. C. girls' varsity intercollegiate basketball team played in the same number of games during the season as the Blue and White hockeyites, but the sextet did not fare so well as their hockey colleagues, for the forces of the opposition were on the long end of the count in each instance.

The opener found the Valleyites losing a closely-contested affair, the Elizabethtown College tossers nosing them out, 20 to 18, in a hard-fought struggle. The E-towners sported a one point advantage at 11-10 at half-time and managed to hold their lead throughout the final session of play. The second contest of the season was played at Bethlehem against the Moravian sextet, with L. V. C. once again on the short end of the score, which read 27-20 as the final whistle sounded. LEBANON VALLEY's girl tossers led during most of the action, but a last-period rally by the Moravians gave them a hard-earned decision. In the season's final the Valley gals traveled to Elizabethtown and dropped their third straight game, this time by a 33-21 count. L. V. C. did not possess the lead at any time throughout their final cage contest.

The squad of courtsters included Kreamer, Smith, Krum, Houck, Binkley, Graby, Orth, Harkins, Spangler, Weirick, Kohler, Baney, and Jagnesak.

ELIZABETHTOWN 20; LEBANON VALLEY 18

L. V. C.'s girl sextet opened their season by dropping a close 20 to 18 contest to Elizabethtown College's dribblers. The Blue and White's opponents obtained an 11-10 lead during the opening half of play and fought off the challenges of the Valleyites throughout the second session to hold their lead and count a well-deserved win. Groff of E-town was high scorer for the evening with an even dozen counters to her credit, while Kreamer, of the L. V. C. team, was a close second with eleven points.

The starting lineup for L. V. C. consisted of Graby and Kreamer at the forward posts, Orth and Harkins in midcourt, and Baney and Kohler in the back court. Weirick and Jagnesak saw action as substitutes for the Valleyites.

MORAVIAN 27; LEBANON VALLEY 20

Moravian College's sextet proved too much for the Blue and White courtsters in their second start of the season and the Bethlehmites won out by virtue of a second-half rally, the final score being 27 to 20. LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE sported a seemingly safe 17 to 11 lead at half-time, but the late rush of the Moravian tossers was too much for the Valleyites. Smith, forward for the Blue and White, led the scoring for the evening with ten points. In addition to the high-scoring forward, Kreamer, Krum, Houck, Jagnesak, Orth, Harkins, Weirick, Binkley, and Baney saw service in the losing cause of L. V. C.

ELIZABETHTOWN 33; LEBANON VALLEY 21

L. V. C.'s gal dribblers met their worst defeat in the final contest of the season when they traveled to Elizabethtown to meet the E-town tossers in a return engagement. The final score favored the Blue and White opponents, 33 to 21, and the Valley gals did not have a look-in on the ball game from start to finish. Bishop, of Elizabethtown, was high scorer for the evening with the phenomenal total of 27 points.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

WOMEN athletes of LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE were organized during the past year into the Women's Athletic Association, formally inaugurated at a dinner in the college dining hall in March.

The Association is the first women's athletic organization to ever appear on the L. V. C. campus and its formation has been greeted with a great deal of enthusiasm among the female devotees of athletics of all sorts.

It will be the purpose of the Association to take active charge of the women's athletic program at LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE, including the managing of intercollegiate competition as well as intramural activity throughout the year. Miss Hodgkins, member of the National Recreation Association and former field secretary of the N. A. A. E., was the main speaker at the inauguration dinner. Widely known as a woman keenly interested in sports for girls and women, Miss Hodgkins delighted the large crowd gathered at the banquet with her interesting talk on "The Way of Life."

Anna Orth, one of the college's outstanding girl athletes, served as president of the organization during its first year of existence.

The sincere interest shown by the members of the organization in its work indicates that the future holds great things for the W. A. A. in regard to the promotion of a full program of women's athletics at L. V. C.

SEASON'S SUMMARY

LEBANON VALLEY COLLEGE's championship varsity baseball outfit is forced to share the top rung of the Blue and White sports ladder with this aggregation, the Freshman basketball team, which played through a tough twelve-game schedule without once being forced to bow in defeat before the forces of the opposition.

This court crew registered its dozen wins while scoring 542 points, an average of 45.2 points per game, against 345 points for the opponents, an average of 28.8 tallies per game. Three times the Flying Freshmen scored over the half-century mark, seven times they passed the two-score mark, and only twice were they held below 40 points.

Raymie Frey, lanky sharp-shooter, tallied 174 points during the season, an average collection of 14.5 counters every 32 minutes. The Frosh were by no means a one-man team, however, for every member of the squad was a dangerous shot. Tony Rozman and Ed Kress consistently snaring high point totals to pass the century mark for the season and Bob Brown, Ken Hance, Carl Dempsey, Jesse Kniley, Howard Rarig, and Frank Poloniak all contributing valuable scores.

The lowest margin of victory in the season's play was five points, although the Frosh were most seriously threatened in their opening encounter against the F. & M. Frosh. In this game the Valleyites trailed, 21-12, at half time, the one time during the season that they left the floor at the intermission on the short end of the tally. In the second half the Greenies from L. V. C. found themselves, outscored their opponents, 26 to 9, and won the game handily.

Coach Jerry Frock's charges will be eligible for varsity competition next year and should prove valuable material to supplement the generous supply of varsity hold-overs which "Chief" Metoxen will have ready for court activity next year.

FROSH DEFEAT DIPLOMAT GREENIES IN SEASON'S OPENER

THE Frosh opened their season by defeating the highly-regarded Franklin and Marshall Freshmen, 38-30, on the Lebanon High School court. The F. & M. quintet led the L. V. C. Greenies at half time, but could not hold their advantage when Raymie Frey spotted the basket for fourteen points in the second half and the whole Blue and White team started to work smoothly. L. V. C. topped the Diplomats, 26-9 in the second half, and won the battle with an eight point margin. Frey paced the winners with twenty tallies.

YEARLINGS TROUNCE WYOMISSING DRIBBLERS, 37-17

In their second contest the Frosh smothered the Wyomissing Polytechnic Institute passers, 37 to 17. The L. V. C. five was held to its lowest offensive tally of the year but at the same time made its best defensive showing in landing a decisive victory. Frey was high scorer for the Frosh with fifteen counters.

MYERSTOWN KEYS PROVE NO MATCH FOR FLYING FRESHMEN

LEBANON VALLEY's high-flying Frosh really hit their scoring stride in the next contest, the Myerstown Keys being smothered beneath an avalanche of twenty-two field goals as the Frosh won, 53 to 29. Tony Rozman appeared in the L. V. C. lineup for the first time and counted eleven points in the one-sided triumph. Kress snared ten points and Frey sixteen in the win.

CORNWALL HIGH MINERS ARE DOWNED BY L. V. C. GREENIES

Cornwall High's fine quintet put up a nice fight as the next opponents of the Frosh but could not cope with the high-scoring attack displayed by the Valleyites. The Miners scored 34 points by utilizing a fast-passing, fast-breaking game, but the Greenies again hit the half-century mark in scoring and subdued their scrappy opponents, 50 to 34.

C. P. B. C. SWAMPED BY SMOOTH FROSH ATTACK

Central Pennsylvania Business College was no match for the Flying Freshmen in a game played on Harrisburg's Madrid Palestra court, with Jerry Frock's passers registering an overwhelming 49-27 triumph as Frey, Kress, and Rozman led the attack.

ALBRIGHT FRESHMEN BECOME VICTIMS NUMBER SIX

The sixth victims of the snappy attack of the L. V. C. Frosh were the Albright Freshmen. Tony Rozman, Raymie Frey, Ed Kress, Howard Rarig, and Bob Brown played bang-up basketball as the Lion Cubs were defeated by a 51-44 count. Rozman registered seventeen points, Frey and Kress each collected eleven, and Rarig counted eight to lead the offensive drive, while Brown played a whale of a game as Rozman's back-court mate. Some accurate goal-flipping by Randy Horowitz and Comba kept the Red and White Frosh in the game.

FANCY FROSH ATTACK OVERWHELMS CITY LEAGUERS

Long's Lumberjacks, a Lebanon City League outfit, were handed a terrific 46 to 18 lacing by the Frosh in the preliminary to the Drexel-L. V. C. varsity game in Lebanon. Kress and Frey each counted fifteen points as the Frosh counted their seventh straight win.

L. V. C. LANDS TIGHT CONTEST AGAINST F. & M. FROSH

The return game with the F. & M. Freshmen was another hard-fought contest, but the L. V. C. yearlings kept their slate clean by crashing through with a 45-40 victory. Raymie Frey cashed in on eight field tosses and five free throws to tally twenty-one points to lead his mates. Rozman and Kress also contributed heavily to the offensive total, while Hance and Brown played fine floor games. Asplin, F. & M. forward, counted fifteen points for the opposing outfit.

HARRISBURG CATHOLIC FALLS BEFORE FROSH, 42 to 36

Victory number nine was scored at the expense of the Harrisburg Catholic High School dribblers, who gave the Frosh a good chase before surrendering by a six-point margin at 42-36. Pilsitz, H. C. H. S. pivot man, tallied 21 points to lead the opposition's forces, while Frey counted eighteen points to top the Valleyites. Kress with ten points, Rozman with eight, and Brown with six also turned in neat performances for the L. V. C. yearlings.

TENTH WIN ACCOMPLISHED IN H. I. S. CONTEST

In the L. V. C.-Muhlenberg preliminary, tossers representing the Hershey Industrial School tried to snap the Freshmen's winning streak but failed utterly, with the Greenies hanging up their tenth win by a 47 to 22 count. LEBANON VALLEY's points were evenly distributed among the starting five, Hance and Kress each snaring ten, Frey and Rozman each accounting for eight, and Brown registering seven.

FRESHMEN DEFEAT ALBRIGHT CUBS FOR NO. 11 TRIUMPH

On March 7 Albright's Frosh met the Valley Greenies for the second time, with approximately the same result as the first encounter—the Blue and White triumphed once again, and by a comfortable margin, 43 to 31. Rozman led the scorers with sixteen tallies, while Frey and Brown accounted for ten and eight respectively. The accurate shooting of Smith, Albright guard, accounted for thirteen of the Red and White's total points.

SENSATIONAL FROSH LAND TWELFTH WIN IN GRAND FINALE

The second triumph of the season for the Frosh over the Hershey Industrial School dribblers brought the season to a close. The score of the twelfth and final Frosh win was 41 to 17, the Greenies completely outplaying their foes in every department of the game as they chalked up nineteen field goals and held the Industrialists to five. Rozman topped the scorers in the last game of the season with thirteen points, Frey following close at his heels with twelve and Kress counting ten points.

THE ALMA MATER

TO THEE, dear Alma Mater,
This ringing song we raise;
A song that's fraught with gladness,
A song that's filled with praise.
We cannot help but love thee,
Our hearts are full and free.
Full well we know, the debt we owe
To dear old L. V. C.

We come from old New Hampshire,
Where wintry breezes blow,
And from the sunny southland,
Where sweet magnolias grow.
We've sung "Star Spangled Banner,"
To Dixie given a cheer;
But now we raise this song of praise
To Alma Mater, dear.

Ye sons of LEBANON VALLEY
Put forth your strongest might,
And let our Alma Mater
Win each and every fight.
Lift high her royal banner,
And keep her honor clear,
And let our songs with voices strong
Ring down through many a year.
